

Work goes on
Students and construction workers pass one another in the back corridor of Wilmington High School. School opened on Monday with few problems, in spite of construction work in progress in the school. The man at right is Ray Muise, clerk of the works on the job.

A smooth opening

by Arlene Surprenant
Though there were a few bus snafus which were worked out the second day and other minor problems, school officials seem to agree Monday's opening day was one of the calmest in recent years, in spite of the on-going renovation project in the high school.

Assistant Superintendent Henry Dembowski attributed the "unusually quiet and smooth opening" to extra efforts made by Supt. Robert Horan to contact all personnel during the summer to forestall any possible problems. He also credits the fact that every teaching and administrative position has been, or is in the process of being, filled.

Both Dembowski and Horan, as well as several school committee members and Town Manager Buzz Stappczynski were on hand at district schools to monitor the smooth opening.

At the high school, Principal Paul Fleming called the first day of classes "absolutely sensational" then, in a more reserved tone,

Tree limb kills youth

A Woburn youth was killed on Saturday afternoon in Wilmington when he was struck by a tree limb.

Michael Mernin was working for the Peterson Landscaping Company on a landscaping job at 14 Roberts Rd. As a tree was cut, it struck another tree, breaking off a limb. The limb fell to the ground, striking Mernin.

He was rushed to the Regional Health Center at 2:50 p.m. with massive head injuries. He was pronounced dead at 3:45 p.m.

The sixteen-year-old youth was just entering his senior year in Woburn High School. He was the son of William and Jean Mernin of Walnut Court, Woburn.

referred to it as "one of the calmest openings we've had." He pointed to the cooperation of both teachers and students, an overall "positive" attitude and a move to take care of such things as scheduling difficulties before opening day to avoid typical first week "chaos" in the guidance department.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors attended two assemblies the first morning so administrators could go over rules and regulations, distribute handbooks, and instill a sense of pride in the newly renovated building.

Except for slow lines in the cafeteria during lunch on Monday, some imperfections in the high school phone system, a discovery that loud speakers were too low, and locker assignments yet to be given out, almost everything, Fleming said, was under control.

Fleming had nothing but praise for PBC members Bernard LaVita and Diane Allan, Building Superintendent Roy McClanahan, Sciaba Construction Co. crews, and all the custodians for the "tremendous push" to ready the building by September 8. According to Fleming, those custodians involved in the monumental effort were head custodian James Downs, Robert Gearty, Dennis Surprenant, John Fullerton, Marty Kuchler, Bob Olson, Dave Newell, Steve Berghaus, Earl L'Esperance, and Roger Lessard.

He also said he appreciated efforts of staff members Frank Lentini and Laurie Schmidt in providing the logo on the cover of the student handbook. "That kind of thing is indigenous to pride," he explained.

As has been his practice in the past two years, Fleming encouraged parents to visit the school and contact either himself or assistant principals Jack Lynch and Edward Woods if they have any questions throughout the year.

Subdivision bond rescinded

by Arlene Surprenant
It's a fair guess that Wilmington homeowners in the Middlesex Pines subdivision may have felt as though they were caught in the middle once again at the planning board's public hearing Tuesday night.

Amid accusations and counter arguments made by lawyers on both the developer's and town's side and by Town Engineer Robert Higgins, residents heard board members unanimously vote to rescind their subdivision because of the developer's failure to finish roadways and provide municipal services. Board members also agreed to request the town manager and town treasurer to take control of the $70,000 security posted to complete the work.

As a result of both motions, Town Manager Buzz Stappczynski said the town will now go out to bid to finish the job. The town may also attach developer Patrick Cone's real and personal property to make up any shortfall. According to calculations made by Higgins and his engineering department, $127,000 is now required to complete the work and pay for prior work which was done incorrectly.

Cone's attorney, Reginald Marden of Andover, traced much of the impasse to a dispute one and a half years ago when Cone was allegedly denied $15,000 from the bond for work completed on sidewalks.

"My client is not going to do any further work until this issue is resolved," said Marden firmly, adding that rescinding the subdivision was "not appropriate" but merely "a meaningless gesture in violation of the subdivision control law."

Rocco DePasquale, chairman of Wilmington's Board of Selectmen, accused Marden of using "delay tactics" saying the $15,000 is "not an issue."

"We are interested (only) in seeing that that project is completed, and the developer has had a reasonable time to act," he added.

Homeowners, too, rose to urge quick action.

Douglas Avenue resident

Domenic Tutela asked that the subdivision be put into "acceptable shape" as soon as possible. Later he murmured that homeowners "lose no matter what," explaining that unless someone can "pull a rabbit out of a hat," it will be "a long time before we get a finished street." This seemed to be the consensus of fellow neighbors as well.

When Planning Board Chairman Carole Hamilton asked if Cone would be willing to finish the roads and receive the bond in a lump sum payment after the work was complete, Marden said this was "not satisfactory." He said, instead, his client would like "a clearly written understanding" with money released from time to time as work is completed. No one was willing to take him up on that proposal.

Homeowners also expressed concern over how the rescission would affect their ability to re-mortgage or sell their property since, in effect, the action would nullify the development. Town Counsel Alan Altman assured them the action should have no bearing on disposal of property provided they bought the homes in good faith from the developer.

Altman also raised the question of a rumored lawsuit between the owner of the Pitt Construction Company and Cone over work reportedly done in Middlesex Pines by Pitt. Marden said he had no such information on a lawsuit, though he didn't deny one might be pending.

Two residents complained that the town may have made a "mistake" and "no one seems to be accepting responsibility" after it was revealed that Higgins accepted verbal certification that work in Middlesex Pines was done correctly. After recent survey work, it turned out some of the sidewalks are now "wrecked" and there is evidence of potholes in the pavement. Higgins said, to his knowledge, the work was done correctly at that time and he could make no determination on what happened since.

Drug policy review tonight

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington School Committee members are expected to review several proposed changes in the school system's two year old drug policy at their meeting tonight. The changes, which will be recommended by Supt. Robert Horan, come only after extensive meetings and suggestions made by members of the Drug and Alcohol Abuse Task Force.

Proposed changes in the policy include a written plan to monitor students' behavior, a student evaluation by a psychologist or other appropriate professional, and the right of appeal of the principal's ruling to the superintendent of schools.

A fourth change would lessen the penalty of a first offense. Instead of forfeiting participation in extra-curricular activities for the remainder of the school year, first offenders would lose only 15 days. A second offense, however, would cost violators the rest of the year.

"With these recommended changes we complete the loop," said Horan, adding that they are made on the basis of two year's experience with the policy in place.

Horan stressed that the school department has already achieved its "first mandate," namely, to send out a clear message that officials would do everything possible to provide a safe learning environment for all students.

Now, he continued, educators will continue to strengthen the policy, especially in the curriculum area, and follow through with a rehabilitative approach. Anything beyond that will have to come from the community and other agencies, he added.

"Certainly I hope the school committee will consider the recommendations," Horan said, adding that whether they incorporate them or not, board members are committed to making some kind of changes in the policy.

For his part, WHS Principal Paul Fleming, who has the difficult job of implementing the policy, seemed in favor of the changes.

"Everyone's concern with drugs is justified but they haven't stopped it," Fleming told the Town Crier, pointing out that for this reason he has continued to support a strong drug policy which would act as a deterrent.

On the other hand, said Fleming, educators need to keep in mind that students make mistakes and should have the opportunity to "never make that mistake again."

He said he is "very much" in support of the 15 day period because students deprived of extra activities for a whole year tend to view themselves as outsiders and they lose hope. Second offenders, however, should feel "the full weight" of the policy, he added.

On the right to appeal the principal's decision, Fleming said "the superintendent always had the right to overrule me; what they've decided is fine and we'll live with that."

Fleming contended, however, that "every decision made here should not be second-guessed."

"We stick to the rules and will continue to stick to the rules," he added.

State primary Tuesday

According to Town Clerk Priscilla Lynch, there are 35 candidates in the running for 12 offices in the state primary this Tuesday, Sept. 16.

Voters will cast their votes either at Town Hall (precincts 1, 2, 5) or at the Wildwood School (precincts 3, 4, 6) between the hours of 7 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Lynch told selectmen Monday night handicapped accessible voting machines will be available to comply with state law. She also said she expects a lot of write-ins or sticker campaigns.

Lists of candidates on the Republican and Democratic ballots appear on Page 20 of this paper.

Boston Brontosaurus, a 75-foot long, 30-ton dinosaur that roamed from Montana to Baha 150 million years ago, will come to the Boston Museum of Science again this fall. Along with him, he's bringing five big friends for the "Return of the Dinosaurs" Exhibition which opens at the Museum on Tuesday, September 16, and continues through November 30.

Museum of Science takes a giant step into the past with the "Return of the Dinosaurs" Exhibition

Growling their way out of the misty, murky prehistoric past, six gigantic dinosaurs will take over the Boston Museum of Science this fall when the Return of the Dinosaurs exhibition opens on Tuesday, September 16 and continues through November 30, 1986.

Return of the Dinosaurs, as the name implies, marks the second visit of mighty Brontosaurus to the Museum and this time he's bringing six of his friends.

The awesome sixsome has delighted children and adults alike in museum appearances across the country. They move, make sounds, breathe and even have reptile-like skin. Although the creatures are half life-size, they are still enormous in human terms. The Museum's Education and Exhibits

Departments have designed hands-on display and activities to give New England living in 1986 a tangible sense of what the dinosaurs were all about. One whole section of the Museum will become the Dinosaurs Activity Den where visitors will find a Dinosaur Foot Print Forest, a Dinosaur Nest with eggs, a Dinosaur Tree where visitors can compare their size with that of various dinosaurs and many other games of discovery.

Museum hours are daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Closed Monday, Except holidays and Massachusetts school vacations. Admission is $5 for adults, $4 for college student with I.D., $2 for children (3-4), $3 for children (5-16) and senior citizens (age 65 and older). For more information call 723-8234.

Wilmington's 6th Annual Exhibition and Crafts Fair

Culture on the Common will be the byword September 20 as Wilmington residents are encouraged to welcome fall at the sixth annual Art Exhibition and Crafts Fair. The fair is beings sponsored by the Wilmington Council for the Arts from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Wilmington Common. Raindate will be Sunday the 21st.

As always, this annual event offers citizens an opportunity to relax and appreciate the talent of local artists and craftspeople.

Area artists will display up to four examples of their work for recognition in the following categories: Oil and Acrylic, Watercolor, Pastel, Mixed Media/Pen and Ink, and Photography. If a sufficient number of entries are submitted, there will also be an award for three-dimensional art including ceramic, sculpture, and original jewelry design. There will be no entry fee for junior division --high school age entrants.

A special award ribbon and a $25 check will be presented for the first time to an outstanding Wilmington artist in memory of the council's past chairman, John D. Brooks. In addition, all entries will compete for the Popular Vote award, which is determined by the votes of viewers and is announced at the end of the show.

To add to the viewer's pleasure, the much heralded Lancaster Brass Quintet will once again be on hand for a free public concert in the Gazebo between 12:30 and 2:30 p.m., thanks to a grant from the Mass. Arts Lottery.

Shirley Winslow, Mary Jane

Gorton, and Sara Pettinelli have agreed to judge this year's exhibit. These women have been chosen for their solid art background and varied media specialties.

Shirley Winslow of Tewksbury attended Rhode Island School of Design and furthered her study under George Shedd, Joseph Collette, and others. She has recently garnered top prizes in art shows in Reading, Chelmsford, and Billerica. She received first place in the Watercolor division in the Wilmington art exhibit a year ago.

Mary Jane Gorton of Medford is a graduate of Wellesley College, a former student of art at the Boston Museum School, and holder of a Masters in Education from Tufts University. She currently teaches art history at both Northeastern University and Babson College and she received first place in the 1985 Wilmington art exhibit for a mixed media entry.

Sara Pettinelli of West Medford studied at the Boston University School of art and retired from teaching in 1982 to concentrate solely on her oil painting. She has exhibited extensively throughout Massachusetts and received numerous awards for her work.

There is still time for artists and craftspeople to submit entries and sign up to demonstrate and display their work. Applications are available at Wilmington Memorial Library and Town Hall. In order to be included in the printed program, deadline for submission of entry forms is Friday, Sept. 12. For further information, please call 658-2042.

Organizers of an Open House to celebrate the grand opening of new AIM (Access is Mandatory) Headquarters say a full day is planned for all disabled and non-disabled citizens of Wilmington. According to AIM chairman Judy DiPalma, the event will be held Thursday, Sept. 25 between the hours of 2 p.m. and 9 p.m.

It is hoped that town officials and members of town boards as well as local businessmen and interested residents will take some time to visit the new center, located in the Fourth of July building on Middlesex Avenue, on the 25th.

Highlighting the festivities will be greetings by WEEI radio personality Ken Meyers at 4 p.m.; Jim Gleich, director of the State Office of Handicapped Affairs, at 7 p.m.; and Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. Ted Kennedy Jr. was also invited but had to decline due to other commitments.

AIM members Carol Beaudoin and Dee Genetti have been working diligently to help coordinate the day's activities. Throughout the day, homemade refreshments will be served and three short films will be shown on handicapped awareness.

According to Beaudoin, "Them and Us" is a film on intimate friendships between disabled and non-disabled adults. Other films cover sports and the disabled and deaf awareness.

Visitors will be encouraged to pick up information brochures outlining what help is available for handicapped citizens in such areas as financial assistance and Social Security benefits. Brochures will be furnished by the Boston Disabilities Law Center, Northeast Independent Living Program, and Mass Rehab, said Beaudoin. As an added attraction, one lucky resident will take home a new gas grille which will be offered as a door prize.

Visitors will also be asked to fill out a questionnaire to help pinpoint what type of programs should be offered at the new headquarters. At this writing, the center will be open every Tuesday and Thursday from 1 to 4 p.m. and Saturdays from 7 to 10 p.m. Several rotating activities have already been planned for the first week in operation. These include educational activities, movies and refreshments, an exercise program, and a game day.

The new headquarters is totally accessible and is designed as a social center for handicapped persons with all types of disabilities. AIM members are grateful to the Fourth of July Committee for the use of the building, which has undergone recent renovations to make it even more accessible, DiPalma said. She added that, hopefully, the opening of the center will serve two purposes: it will afford an opportunity for the handicapped to interact with others and "give them a feeling of getting out in the world" and it will give spouses some much needed free time.

The AIM program, continued DiPalma, provides a support group and a chance to participate in leisure activities, community outings, and civil rights advocacy.

AIM is also known as the Wilmington Committee for Citizens with Disabilities (WCCD).

Accessible voting

Voting will be in Tuesday's primary will be relatively easy for handicapped persons in Wilmington. Voting machines have been modified to allow height adjustment, making them wheelchair accessible. Town hall custodian Connie Luongo demonstrates the height of the machine on the right, with the machine on the left as a comparison.

The Humble Farmer

The youthing specialist

Gramp Wiley crumpled up his newspaper and threw it on the floor. It was an obvious invitation to ask him what he'd read.

"I have been reading about an expert on aging who runs around giving lectures," he growled.

I couldn't see what could be so terribly upsetting about that and I said so.

My old neighbor spoke as if he were explaining hot stoves to a small child. "Who needs help from an expert on aging? Any fool can grow old: What this country needs is a Task Force on Youthing."

"You amaze me," I cried. "Everyone would like to be younger."

"Not everyone. Kindergarten kids play grown-up by dressing in adult clothes. High school kids start smoking because the ads imply it will make them look older and wiser."

"I'm talking about people over 30. They'd all like to be younger if only someone could tell them how."

"I happen to be an expert on youthing," said Gramp Wiley. "I've already advised some old folks how to cast off years by acting younger."

"Don't their creaking bodies give them away?"

"Not in an automobile," Gramp said. "You take, for example, someone who is trying to outrun the police. Most anyone with a heavy foot can lead the police on a high speed chase for hours, but mention running roadblocks, and a male in his early 20's always comes to mind."

"But most anyone over 80 would soon stop and surrender after they'd been rammed at high speeds by half a dozen police cars. They could sign for their $2,000 personal recognizance and still be home before dark to watch game shows."

"Oh, you're talking about really old folks - those over 80," Gramp said. "True, most of them would have trouble with a high speed chase. But that doesn't mean an end to coming across like a young man by peeling rubber - oh no. If some old methuselah confesses to me that he's a bit shaky on the road at any speed, I suggest that he floor it in a parking lot. That way he can burn a lot of rubber--just like a kid, remember--without really being able to steer. Those who have tried it either push a few cars around or put their bumper through the wall of the supermarket."

"Why that's great, Gramp. Old duffers who should have had their licenses lifted years ago could come across as young and virile as Sylvester Stallone. And they could do it at only 10 miles per hour."

"Right. The important thing is to keep the tires smoking long after the car has crunched to a halt," Gramp said. "And when the police point out that you've knocked the supermarket wall down, remember to shrug your shoulders, chew your match, and say, 'It's ok. I don't shop here.' Shows that damn-the-torpedos determination that we've come to identify with youth."

"Have you ever heard of an adult who didn't mind growing older, slower and more forgetful?"

Gramp nodded. "Fellow whose small plane crashed last week couldn't remember where he was going or why he was going there. The police found over $400,000 scattered around the crash site but he couldn't remember where he got the cash or what he was going to do with it. Some folks testifying before the grand juries can't remember where they've buried bodies."

"Senility is a terrible thing," I said.

Gramp said, "The Drug Enforcement Administration and the income tax people have been looking into that airplane situation. The most reasonable explanation anyone has come up with so far is that he was going to prepay next winter's heating bill."

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

With a political season that has been somewhat dry in Massachusetts, voters from all parts are focusing on the only races that seem to be conjuring up any excitement and genuine interest. These include the eighth congressional district fight, the lieutenant governor's race, and, the campaign in Suffolk County for a new sheriff. It is the latter which may be the only incentive for the voters to come out in strength in the City of Boston and the other parts of Suffolk County.

With the announcement of Dennis Kearney that he was leaving the post, two individuals immediately emerged as the frontrunners. The first to come out in the running was Bob Rufo, who has served as special sheriff under Kearney and is a graduate of Suffolk Law School. Then came the man who has added the real flavor and distinction to the campaign, Boston City Councillor Albert 'Dapper' O'Neil. 'Dapper' has been one of the more colorful councillors in Boston, and is a graduate of the Andrew Natsios School of Diplomacy. Prior to the announcement by Kearney that he was leaving office, O'Neil had been a candidate in the Democratic primary contest in the eighth congressional race. To say 'Dapper' stood out a bit in that one is an understatement. He was the only candidate there who had never eaten quiche.

With the fight under way, Rufo and O'Neil have not held back any ammunition. O'Neil stresses his experience on the city council public safety committee, and states that Rufo is soft on crime. Of course, the fact of the matter is that just about anyone in Massachusetts would be a softy when compared to Albert 'Dapper' O'Neil. Rufo has fought back with his record of experience as a special sheriff working under Kearney and has tried to convince the public that 'Dapper' is just short of being a gun-slinging maniac who could not be trusted with the powers of the sheriff's office. He has communicated this point through a television commercial that will probably make the next addition of Bleepers and Bloopers. The commercial shows a scene from a silent movie with gunfighters engaged in a brawl. The connection is that the conservative O'Neil would turn professional law and order into a system akin to the old wild, wild west.

But all of this O'Neil bashing doesn't seem to be doing Rufo a tremendous amount of good. He is working against one of the most loved-hated politicians in the history of Boston, and perhaps Massachusetts. And, it is the love vote that will be coming out in force on primary day. O'Neil, for all his faults, has been an effective voice in the city for the elderly and the average working man. He is an advocate of good public safety, and has shown this through his record on the public safety committee in the council. And, amidst all this, he is probably well disliked in the mayor's office for not only his conservative stands, but his open and public support of President Reagan. What has really caused O'Neil to attract some enemies is his bluntness. Good old 'Dapper' doesn't mince any words, which is probably why he is a breath of fresh air in politics.

Unfortunately, the liberal establishment hasn't taken too kindly to some of 'Dapper's' statements. When he talks about guns they seem to take him a bit too seriously. But that is the problem with liberals, who all seem to leave their sense of humor in a locker at Harvard Square. To spite what Rufo may charge, O'Neil is not about to create a police state in Boston or Suffolk County. Instead, he will utilize the office for a more concerted effort in fighting the growing problem of drug trafficking in the city, and crimes committed against the elderly. Bob Rufo may want to start typing out a new resume.

Admiral Nakhimov

Russian cruise ship had an unlucky name

by Larz Neilson

What's in a name? Most of the time, nothing. Particularly when the name is of foreign derivation with no apparent meaning.

The news on Labor Day was that a Soviet Russian ship had been sunk, in the Black Sea. It was 61 years old, and reported as being 17,000 tons. The name was Admiral Nakhimov.

So that is news? Well, indirectly it can be interesting.

The ship was built in 1925 in Germany, and seized by the Russians after World War II. It was renamed after Admiral Pavel Nakhimov, who commanded the Russian Black Sea fleet during the 1853-6 war between Russia and Turkey.

Admiral Nakhimov was ready, when the war started. He sailed immediately. A day or two later he took the Turkish fleet by surprise, in a Turkish port facing on the Black Sea.

It was an event that has never been forgotten, no matter who rules the Russian empire.

One of the battleships which took part in the Battle of Tsushima, in the Russian-Japanese War (c 1903) was named Admiral Nakhimov. It was sunk, in over 300 feet of water, in Tsushima Straits.

That ship carried a treasure in gold and platinum over $1 billion. So far it has been impossible to salvage that treasure, because of the strong currents and the depth of water.

But the Japanese have never forgotten, and continue to try. Nor have the Russians forgotten. They continue to watch.

editorial

What are you doing Tuesday?

Tuesday's state primary is described by many as a ho-hum election. It seems that many voters have more reasons not to vote than there are candidates.

In an effort to drag you, kicking and complaining, to the polls, we will attempt to answer some of your reasons for not voting in the state primary.

There are no interesting races.

Nonsense. Some candidates have gone to the ends of the earth to catch voter interest. Look at JoAnn Shotwell's commercial on Seabrook -- scared some folks out of their wits.

We don't need a lieutenant governor.

That's not the point. There are two candidates, each looking for a stepping stone. You, the voter, have an opportunity to pull the rug out from under one of those stones.

I'm too busy.

C'mon. The time is there -- use it. It will only take you five minutes. Besides, the ballot is nice and simple, saving you the agony of hard decisions.

This is only the primary. I'm going to wait for the real election.

The primary is just as important as the November election. Some races will actually be decided in the primary.

I never vote because I hate politicians.

Here's your chance to vote against the ones you really hate.

I don't know who to vote for.

The lack of candidates will make that an easy choice. Just be sure you have a coin in your pocket.

I've never used a voting machine.

There's always a first time, so why not try it in a simple election. Wilmington even has machines that have been adapted for people in wheelchairs.

My vote doesn't count anyway.

With the expected low turnout, each vote will represent a higher percentage of the total. And who says there won't be a close race?

I didn't register.

Well, we can't help you there. But go to the town hall and register for the November election.

Now, which one of Santa's lists do you want to be on -- naughty or nice? Don't blame us if you don't vote, and then get nothing but a lump of coal for Christmas.

The day is Tuesday. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. It only takes a few minutes, so why not vote?

25 years ago

The September 14, 1961 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

The Wilmington Community Fund goal for the year was set at $10,000.

Evening school registration was scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday evenings with 28 courses offered.

Patsy's Farm on south Main Street was advertising native potatoes at 10 pounds for 29 cents and Mackintosh apples at three pounds for 29 cents.

The extension of the Hathaway acres subdivision was approved by the planning board with 22 new lots including Evans Drive and Buzzell Drive.

More than 50 students reported for football practice for the 1961 team including Capt. Eddie Woods, Dicky Allard, Jack Bowen and Kevin Fields, who were pictured.

Several Little League dads who won no prizes at a recent drawing were consoled when Larz took their pictures anyway. The "sad dads" included John Kalkanajian, Jim Tildsley, Joe Hennessey, and Charlie Malatesta.

Chairman John Brooks of the Board of Selectmen told those present at a meeting that several streets in town, now under construction will be finished soon -- among them: Federal Street, Concord Street, Boutwell Street, Dunton Road, Hobson Avenue and Powder House Circle.

Roger Luken of North Street was enrolled at Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

Cpl. William Johnson of Edgecomb Road was on duty with the military police in Germany.

Tom Bowen of Main Street was serving on the USS Barton of the Navy's anti-submarine defense force in the Mediterranean.

Aleppo abutters decry parking lot work

by Arlene Surprenant
Neighbors of the Aleppo Temple on Fordham Road in Wilmington were not happy with plans to continue a rock crushing and earth removal operation on the site to make room for a 1,100 car parking lot for the facility.

At Monday's selectmen's meeting, abutters complained of excessive noise, property damage from continuous blasting, an increase in work hours, and "a negative quality of life" due to the ongoing operation.

William Manchester, general manager of Aleppo Temple, was present to seek a second renewal of an earth removal permit and to assure neighbors he is trying to address their concerns. Selectmen voted to table any decision until their next meeting, pending further information.

"It's only because it's the Shriners that I tolerate anything," said abutter Lorraine Ballou, who called the noise pollution the "worst" aspect of the work. She also pointed out that the work is reportedly being done by an out of town firm and the resulting parking lot will be used by residents from other towns as well.

"Why do we always have to put up with what outsiders do to our town? They wouldn't do it in their own towns," she said.

Though he said he had no objection to the project in general, Jim Carroll explained that in his estimation the hours of operation have increased often going to 9:30 at night. Other neighbors agreed with him.

Under the terms of the permit, said Chairman Rocco DePasquale, the hours should be 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays only. Later in the evening, selectmen agreed to limit operations to 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. during the week. They also said they would allow blasting between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

Abutters pointed out that the blasting allegedly causes "ripples" in in-ground pools, cracks in ceilings, fault lines in floors, and jolts to already frayed nerves. After questioning how much longer they would have to live with the situation, residents were told another four to five years. But Town Engineer Robert Higgins qualified this, saying that time frame was only an estimate and depended on how fast the work continues.

One of the closest abutters, Rebecca Robichaud of Park Street, praised the contractor for informing her when the blasting would occur and taking photos of her property to allow them to later check for damage. However, she added she had had trouble reaching him after installing a new pool, which she wasn't sure would withstand the charges.

"The situation is barely tolerable at this point," said another resident, "and it's going to get a lot worse."

Selectmen explored possible ways to put a cap on the number of years the project will be underway. They also held out for extra time to check the size of blasting charges with the fire department and to check into the amount of the bond the town has required in case of damage to nearby property.

To satisfy abutters, DePasquale suggested the use of a monitoring device to record the size of charges and the evaluation of all neighborhood property in case of damage. He also said the construction company may have to move the crushing operation to another location to cut down on the noise of the machinery.

Shawsheen Tech seeks Wolk's replacement

by Bill Conlon
The search has begun in earnest for someone to replace retired Shawsheen Tech superintendent Benjamin Wolk.

The district school committee invited Dr. William Mahoney, a consultant with the New England School Development Council, to speak at their Tuesday night meeting. Mahoney had a number of suggestions for the recruitment campaign.

However, the search for the new superintendent is late in getting started, and the new school director will miss part of the school year.

"He won't be on board until sometime in January," said Peter Downing, one of the committee's Tewksbury delegation.

The Shawsheen school committee agreed to set October 24 as the cutoff date for receiving applications, while giving Dr. Mahoney until December 16 to make his recommendations. Mahoney said that some 10 outside applicants would probably be recommended, along with in-house applicants.

After some discussion, the school committee agreed that more than ten applicants could be reviewed.

Mahoney told the group that there was no way of determining how many applications would be received. He did mention that filling the post could be difficult, due to a shortage of qualified candidates.

"We're looking for someone who can handle both the budgetary aspects of running the school and the handling of special needs students," said Wilmington delegate Kevin Sowryda. "Someone who can handle both tasks could be hard to find."

The committee also agreed to set the salary of the new administrator at "between $50,000 and $60,000." Mahoney told the group that the salary would be competitive enough to attract qualified applicants, without being excessive.

Acting on Dr. Mahoney's recommendation, the Shawsheen school board agreed to place advertisements in this week's issue of the Boston Sunday Globe, the next issues of Update magazine and Education Week and various other professional journals. The board agreed to spend up to $3,000 on ads for the post.

Bible class begins soon in Wilmington

The First Baptist Church of Wilmington will conduct an evening Bible institute, Sunday evenings beginning Sept. 21 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the church's Abundant Life Christian School, 17 Boutwell St., Wilmington.

Each six week session will feature speakers from local colleges, seminaries, Christian centers and the pastoral staff of the First Baptist Church. The first session will include classes on Biblical self-esteem, Inductive Bible study methodology, and a course designed for those seeking a deeper spiritual life called "Walking in the Spirit."

There will be a minimal charge for each course. Frank Stiller, associate pastor at First Baptist says "We are excited about this unique, advanced Christian education opportunity for the community and surrounding areas." All classes will be Biblically based and will provide each student with a better knowledge of God's word, a closer relationship with the Lord and deeper insight into living a victorious Christian life.

Registration is now open for the Evening Bible Institute. Please call the church office, 658-8584 for more information or to register.

The history of Tewksbury's Long Pond

Copyright © 1986
by Capt. Larz Neilson

Some persons say the mud at the bottom of Tewksbury's Long Pond is 12 feet deep. No one really knows.

The pond, like others in the area, dates from the last of the fourth glacial age, about 10 or 11 centuries ago. Technically it is a glacial pot hole.

The center of what is now Tewksbury, at that time was the site of a large lake, surrounded by ice walls of the glaciers. Ice floes and icebergs floated on that lake. Some of those icebergs ran aground, on shallow spots, and remained in position.

As the weather got warmer, rivers formed on top of the ice and flowed into the lakes. Sand and gravel were carried by those rivers. The immense sand banks in Tewksbury were formed at that time, such as can be seen today at the intersection of Colonial Drive and Foster Road.

Around the grounded icebergs more sand piled in, and tended to cover the ice. Finally, in what is now the Shawsheen River, somewhere down stream, the ice melted enough to release the water, and cause the lake to drain.

Two icebergs remained, unmelted. Today the sites are Long Pond and Round Pond. Mud Pond, in South Tewksbury, was in a different lake system, as was Silver Lake, in Tewksbury-Wilmington.

When the last of the ice melted the sites became ponds, filled with nice clean water. It was still probably clear when the first Puritans arrived.

Today there is pollution in the ponds, much of it man made. A lot, however, is "natural" - a product of Mother Nature.

Weeds and tree leaves, falling into the ponds, and other materials, started the process. Droppings, from birds and animals hastened it. Finally came run-offs from farmer's fertilizers and other such materials.

The ponds and lakes were quite clear when the first settlers arrived. Silver Lake, in Wilmington, was known as Sandy Pond until after the American Civil War. Round Pond and Long Pond could have been and probably were just as clear.

Ice house site

On the north side of Long Pond in Tewksbury, near the intersection of Pleasant Street and Whipple Road, stands the former site of the old Smith Ice House. Visible across the pond is the huge Lowell Gas Co. storage tank.

The first person who seems to have been interested in Long Pond was Samuel Manning of Billerica. He lived on the south side of the hill on which stands Billerica Center today, and moved into Billerica about 1666. Manning became town clerk, was a selectman for a number of years, and a representative in the legislature (Great and General Court).

In 1680 the Billerica Town Meeting voted to allow Manning to prepare a mill site, on Content Brook, below Long Pond. It was to be about five acres in area, and he was to raise the level of the brook about one foot, presumably by a dam.

There does not seem to be any direct evidence that he built a sawmill. But, about 100 years later a great-grandson, Theophilus Manning, owned a sawmill on a site which is westerly from Whipple Road, near where Content Brook crosses. The site is about 100 yards southerly of Shawsheen Street, and nearly in Tewksbury.

In 1825 the Manning family sold the mill to Aaron Patten. He, 20 years later, started to manufacture cabinet work on the site. The enterprise grew. By the time of the Civil War the name for the area was Pattenville.

The Patten family sold its holdings to a person named Walter Pettingill in 1879. Three years later the mill was destroyed by fire. That was more than a century ago.

The mill did not cause any pollution to Long Pond, but it could not have been in existence without the pond being there first.

Association supports Tewks school music

The Tewksbury Memorial High School (TMHS) Music Association consists of parents, teachers, instructors, and students. Anyone who has a child in band, chorus, color guard or majorettes is a member. The purpose of forming the association was to assist the students financially to purchase equipment, uniforms, defray the cost of their annual spring trip and to award two scholarships.

The association has a monthly meeting to decide on fund raisers, give an account of existing funds, and when necessary to vote on distribution of funds.

Everyone is encouraged to attend the meetings. Meetings are on the second Wednesday of every month from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the music room of TMHS.

The association began this year on Sunday, August 24, with a social hour welcoming the incoming students and their parents. This gave everyone an opportunity to meet Roger Whittlesey, the music director, who addressed the group briefly and answered many questions from the parents.

WHAT HAPPENS TO STATE TAXES?

All across the country, state legislatures were watching the battle over the federal tax laws, partly because their own state income tax and other forms are based on the federal returns.

Many states have followed the federal form in adjusting for Individual Retirement Accounts, dividend exclusions, consumer interest deductions, and capital gains. Just as these preferences have lowered federal taxes in the past, they lowered state taxes, too. Under a situation in which federal tax reform wipes out certain preferences, state taxes would rise sharply, unless the states either lower rates or give up the link to the federal form.

The biggest concern of the states was the Senate proposal to stop allowing deductions for state sales taxes. States which depend on sales taxes for their income complained that this would create a financial hardship for them.

TRY A TASTE OF GOURMET VIEWING. IT'S TV WITHOUT THE EAT.

Imagine this, you turn on your TV and whatever you're in the mood for, it's there. Well, it doesn't take imagination, all it takes is cable TV.

Cable is gourmet viewing. Not more TV, but better TV. You get the viewing you're hungry for. Hot blockbuster movies, just when you feel like one. When you want sports, cable gives you sports, not some soap opera.

Cable doesn't just give you crystal clear reception, it gives you channels you can't get on ordinary TV and fascinating viewing you can't find at any video store. Whole channels for news, weather, music, entertainment and much, much more. You can indulge your tastes exactly, no compromises here.

If you're interested in a TV diet that's rich but not filling, now's the time to try it. By calling 1-800-MY-CABLE now, you can get 50% off installation. So, enjoy a taste of gourmet viewing. We think you'll be completely satisfied.

Water treatment plant approved

by Arlene Surprenant
The new water treatment plant proposed for North Wilmington got an official okay from members of the Conservation Commission last Wednesday.

Water and Sewer commissioners told the Conservation Commission the plant will be built on the site of the existing Barrows station and will treat water from three wellfields: Brown's Crossing, Barrows and Salem Street.

With the new plant, said Commissioner George Allan, they will not only obtain a better quality of water, but will be able to pump up to maximum capacity.

Engineer Alan Silbowitz, of the Weston and Sampson firm which did the work on the Butters Row plant and is designing the newer one, said this plant will be as "well kept and well maintained" as the older one.

He explained they are trying to make the plant as attractive as possible to abutters and hope to keep as much woodland as possible as a buffer. They also don't anticipate any odor problem from two sludge lagoons designed for backwash.

Conservation Commission members seemed satisfied that the plant will have only "minimal" impact on the surrounding area. They were told there would be three points of discharge to handle run-off and increased run-off would go back into their own wellfields. They were also told there would be no filling of wetlands and that septic plans meet Title V regulations.

In other commission action, members voted to continue a public hearing on the new gallery style building proposed for Deming Way in two weeks. The hearing was required because of encroachment on wetlands in the rear of the site. Members decided they needed more detailed information after hearing architect Jerry Ingersoll present plans to build catch basins for surface drainage for the new elderly housing.

"I don't see any major problems with what has been presented," said commission chairman Chester Bruce, adding his board just needed more calculations to verify facts.

Elated members of the Wilmington Housing Authority told the Town Crier Wednesday it looked like Rep. James Miceli has been successful in obtaining an additional $44,000 from the state to build the Cedar Street sewer. The sewer project is necessary to the construction of additional units on the Deming Way site.

According to WHA member Bill Strob, construction work should get underway in October.

The extra funding was required when bids came in higher than previously allotted. The town had appropriated $75,000 for the project. The remaining $85,000 had been picked up by the Executive Office of Communities and Development.

Tewksbury resident Katherine "Kitty" Kelly turned 102-years-old last week. Born in Donegal, Ireland, Kitty came alone to America when she was 19, back in 1903. She currently resides at Blair House on Erin Terrace.

Tewksbury woman turns 102

A birthday is a good time to look back on life and reminisce. But for Tewksbury resident Katherine "Kitty" Kelly, it can be difficult to remember back that far. Kitty just turned 102 years old last Thursday.

Still alert and active, Kitty was born on September 4, 1884, in Donegal, Ireland.

Kitty came to this country by herself when she was 19 years old, back in 1903. She said her sister came over first, then sent her the money for steamship passage. Kitty left her family and farm behind in Donegal, where she said the farm is still in family hands after all these years.

Kitty said she lived with her sister in the New World for awhile before marrying an American. She said she had two children, but that her husband was killed in an unfortunate accident.

Kitty currently resides at the Blair House nursing home on Erin Terrace, where she said she has lived for two years now. And after all this time, Kitty still speaks with a thick Irish brogue.

Some things never seem to change, even after a century.

Health board member submits resignation

Domenic Tutela, long standing member of Wilmington's Board of Health, recently submitted his letter of resignation to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. His resignation went into effect last Thursday.

Tutela told fellow members last Wednesday that he would still be available for work in an unofficial capacity. He said his work on the board conflicted too much with his business activities and, although the work had been interesting and enjoyable, it had placed extra demands on his time.

In his letter, he stated he had a good relationship with board members, past and present, and praised Health Director Greg Erickson for being "hardworking, intelligent, and very knowledgeable in public health matters."

Public speaking course offered

Do you wish to feel more relaxed and confident when making presentations? Do you hope to make your presentations more persuasive by effectively communicating your point of view? If so, the Community Health Education Department of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington has a program to meet your needs.

By focusing on the control of anxiety, organization of thoughts and ideas, and effective vocal and speech techniques, the public speaking program will assist the participant to feel more comfortable and confident when addressing groups. Program format will consist of lectures, small group discussions, role play, and short practice speeches.

The course will be taught by Adrienne Dana, M.S., C.C.C., speech pathologist at the Regional Health Center. Ms. Dana holds a bachelor's degree in speech and theatre and a masters' degree in speech pathology, and is also a professor in communications at Salem State College.

The program will be offered on Mondays, September 29, Oct. 6, 20, 27 from 7 to 9 p.m. Participants are also encouraged to enroll in an Interpersonal Communication course which will follow the Public Speaking course, and will be held Monday evenings in November.

Please contact the Community Health Education Department at 657-3910, extension 567 for registration information. The Regional Health Center in Wilmington is a division of Choate-Symmes Health Services.

Public health director has complex job

by Arlene Surprenant

Note: This is the third in a series of articles on town department heads and government officials. The series will be ongoing, as time and space permits.

Knowledgeable. Experienced. Intelligent. Hard Working. According to those who've gotten to know him in the past year, all the above could be attributed to Wilmington's Health Director, Gregory Erickson.

A quiet man, Greg easily astounds most people with his broad background and ability to juggle the many aspects of his complex job.

Underneath his thoughtful demeanor is a family man who strives to balance his job responsibilities with quality time for his family of four. There is also the professional who claims membership in a number of associations because it gives him a chance to exchange information and Greg believes "information is one of the most valuable tools of this trade."

The health director, explains Greg one recent afternoon, "is responsible for running the health department on a day to day basis." He answers to the Town Manager and the board of health, which meets on a regular basis to "set policy."

The director's job is indeed complex because, as Greg puts it, "public health covers such a broad spectrum of activities." Whatever falls to the town nurse, whether it be diabetic screening or holding flu clinics, for instance, falls under his domain as well. The job also covers septic systems and food establishment inspections, overseeing chemical companies in town, conducting water percolation tests, checking water quality, and answering so-called "nuisance" complaints dealing with noise, odors, animals, or whatever.

In the course of a day, Greg may answer piles of correspondence, review plans or walk subdivision sites, attend several meetings, and answer phone complaints. Many people don't know that the director also makes four inspections on each new home built in town. With a reported 100 homes being built each year, the demands on Greg's time are increasing.

Greg received a degree in Environmental Public Health from U.Mass in 1974 and has worked in the field ever since. He is a registered sanitarian who worked his way up from an entry level position to "as high as I could go" in the Pittsfield Health Department. Greg then moved to a job in the model Quabbin Health District, which covers three towns, and later worked as Billerica Health Director for one and a half years.

Because of his commitment to the public health field and a desire to learn as much as he can, Greg serves on numerous committees and boards. He is on the executive and legislative committees of the Mass. Health Officers Association. He serves on the DEQE Advisory Committee, and Northeast Regional Advisory Committee connected with Tewksbury Hospital, and the computer committee connected with the National Environmental Health Association.

He was also appointed Right to Know Coordinator by the town manager to help train others in the Right to Know law. As he enumerates on his outside activities, Greg explains he likes to know things before they happen and he enjoys meeting with other directors "in a professional way."

All of his activities plus his workload make you wonder if he has any free time at all.

"Well, there's not any part of the job I don't like except sometimes it runs into very long hours. That can be very taxing and takes away from family life," he is quick to admit.

Like most busy professionals, Greg squeezes in as much time with his family as his schedule allows. He describes his children - eight year old Mary and six year old Mark - as "very healthy and loving kids." With a hint of pride, he adds that they're "very smart" too. His wife Paulette is of French extraction and cooks up her specialties at Kindercare in Chelmsford.

Though they reside in the Highlands section of Lowell, the Erickson family is currently in the process of building a home in Wilmington. Greg looks toward the day when they can become a part of the town, a town he feels "has done things right as it still has its small town character, which is a real asset to a suburb."

In his spare time, Greg enjoys riding his motorcycle and learning to use his home computer. Perhaps his most interesting pursuit is tracing his family's roots and delving into genealogy. As a result of his hobby, he's already ascertained that he's descended from the Arnold family, which had a descendent on the Mayflower and who married into the family of Roger Williams.

When asked what advice he would give a newcomers in his field, Greg replies, without hesitation, he'd tell them to go into a specialized health area.

"From a financial aspect, it's probably the best way to go," he says, adding that being health director may not be "all that profitable" and, in many cases, the job may be too broad. In order to be a success in the position, he continues, a person has to be slow to anger and not easily rattled. He also must have an ability to see things "from more than one direction in order to evaluate on different levels."

Greg is pleased that he does have some help and there have been a few improvements since he's held the position. Besides the help of the volunteer members of the board of health, he has a full time nurse; the help of the dog officer, who receives a minimal fee to help out his department; and another registered sanitarian who only fills in when Greg's not around. He also shares two secretaries with the building inspector, which is a help because both women have a working knowledge of the two departments. In the past year, a new computer arrived which Greg feels will be instrumental in saving valuable time.

As he looks toward the future, Greg sees an increase in health regulations and job demands, which he feels could be lessened by hiring a full time sanitarian. He also sees public health encompassing highly technical areas like hazardous wastes. As an example, Greg explains one of the hardest issues he's dealing with now is the closure of the Olin Chemical plant as he and the health department try to assure the town everything will be done properly.

"I brought a lot with me as far as experience goes," Greg says at one point. You can't help but agree and think that Wilmington can only benefit from that experience and the hard work of one of its newest department heads.

New teachers in Wilmington schools

by Arlene Surprenant

The majority of new teachers in Wilmington this school year will be found in the various elementary schools.

Both Donna Caruso and Susan Mercurio will assume duties as teachers in the Woburn Street School. Both hold a B.S. degree and have a total of 17 years experience behind them.

JoAnne Bray and Geraldine Abrams will be teaching elementary reading at the Woburn Street School. In addition Abrams, who holds a B.S., M.Ed., and CAGS degree and boasts 17 years experience, will teach at the Shawheen School.

Marguerite Marrano and Nancy Murphy, each with seven years experience, will be working in different levels at the Wildwood School.

Jeffrey Horney, a graduate of Berklee College of Music, will teach instrumental music in all three elementary schools. Margaret Mar, who previously was a substitute teacher and had worked six months in Project Enterprise, will become a permanent teacher in the Gifted and Talented Program.

An elementary teacher in Wilmington for 19 years, Martha Mahoney will become the Shawheen School's permanent librarian. She is a Certified Media Specialist with a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Education degrees.

At the high school, Peter Atlas will instruct students in mathematics. He holds a B.A. from Oberlin College and a Master of Education degree from the University of Massachusetts. James Krupa will join the physical education department. He holds both B.S. and M.Ed degrees from Norwich University.

Lynda St. James has been hired to fill a four-fifth position as speech/drama instructor. She holds an A.A. degree from Ithaca and a B.S. from Emerson College.

Janet E. Graham comes well qualified to serve as the school system's part time psychologist. She holds degrees and certificates from the University of Kansas, University of Stockholm, and Harvard University and has had nine and a half years experience in her field.

A graduate of Lesley College, Melissa E. Lucey will teach the SEEM class at the West Intermediate School.

Tewksbury senior topics

Those people traveling to Spags and the Salem Cross Inn this Thursday, Sept. 11, are reminded that the bus will leave from the Senior Center at approximately 8:30 a.m. and from Carnation Drive at 8:40. Travelers are also reminded that they must take their own shopping bags and that Spags' policy is to accept cash (no checks).

Beano and whist will be played this Saturday at the Senior Center beginning at 1:30 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

Government surplus cheese and butter will be distributed at the Senior Center Tuesday, Sept. 23 during the hours of 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. This distribution will be held in the same manner as previous distributions.

Japanese Bunka embroidery classes will resume Monday, Sept. 15 at 6 p.m.

The COA health and exercise program at the Lowell Boys Club will not be held next Monday, Sept. 15. However, this activity will resume on Sept. 22.

Our thanks to the Tewksbury Memorial High School Media Department and Mr. Stuart for the recent taping of the health and exercise program. The showing of this tape on cable TV will be announced.

Tickets for the fall dance are now available from the coordinator. The fall dance will be held at the Senior Center Friday, Sept. 26 from 7:30 p.m. The evening will include entertainment by Angie Bergamini and a mid-evening buffet.

A waiting list is being compiled for the day trip to the Weathervane Restaurant and the French's on September 30. Therefore, if anyone finds they are unable to attend, contact the coordinator. This action will enable someone else to enjoy the trip.

The trip of November 16 to the Bull Run to see Larry Glick is filling up fast. This trip will include transportation, a dinner choice of chicken or yankee pot roast and the Larry Glick Show at a cost of $18.55 per person. A $5 deposit is now due. Departure time for this trip will be approximately 3:30 p.m., returning around 10.

The regular schedule will be adhered to this week:

Health Center offering courses to adults, teens and businesses

The Community Health Education Department of the Regional Health Center is offering a wide variety of 30 adult and teen community programs for the fall semester. In addition to courses being offered at Regional Health Center in Wilmington, Choate Hospital in Woburn, and Symmes Hospital in Arlington, courses will be available through Andover Community Services, Lexington Minuteman Vocational Technical High School adult education program and Wilmington Community Schools.

All of the courses and programs are available to companies provided on-site and scheduled at the company's requested time slot. Programs will be offered during daytime hours at the Regional Health Center as part of a new professional development series. Small companies wishing to certify just one or a few employees in Standard First Aid, for example, may send the employee(s) to a program during work hours. For companies with eight or more employees, a special program would be offered.

The Cardiovascular Risk Assessment program, which includes blood tests for blood sugar/diabetes, cholesterol/HDL and triglycerides, as well as blood pressure testing, individual lifestyle counseling and personal risk assessment for heart disease, will again be offered at all three Choate-Symmes/RHC divisions on a monthly basis. CPR, Babysitter Training and First Aid will also be offered monthly.

Special programs for those over 50 will be offered at the Regional Health Center. A wide array of exercise programs will be offered including aerobic dance, aerobic exercise, body sculpture, fitness workout for men, exercise for overweight only, fitness after 50 and arthritis exercise/ unlimited movement for post-surgical, mastectomy and other patients with special exercise needs.

For copy of the course brochure and schedules, call 657-3910, ext. 567.

Company representatives are welcome to call for community and professional development series brochures.

Send the Town Crier back to college this fall.

College students need lots of things. Your new freshman needs books, calculators, clothes and all those things you have at home that make life bearable. Seniors have all those things but will buy new ones anyway.

The one thing they don't have is home town news.

You can clip all those articles about their friends, events in town, scores of their old high school team and mail them each week - or

Send them the Town Crier each week with their own subscription.

Cori Washak is bride of David Sughrue

Cori Washak became the bride of Dave Sughrue on June 14. The mid-morning ceremony was performed by Father Hughes before the altar of St. Thomas Church in Wilmington and a reception followed at the Hillview Country Club in North Reading where Stephanie Hudson circulated the guestbook.

Michele Hudson acted as matron of honor while the bridesmaids included Tricia Rivera, Diane Sugrue, Patty Sugrue, Rose Dunham, Gail Richards and Sandy Lally.

Artie Sugrue served as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Mike Sugrue, Richie Washak, Greg Washak, Todd Richards, Tony Tomasi and Bill Lally. Matthew Andre served as ring bearer.

The new Mrs. Sughrue is a 1979 graduate of Wilmington High School and is employed as a software engineer at Nixdorf in Burlington.

Her husband, also a 1979 graduate of Wilmington High School, graduated from Salem State College with the Class of 1984 and is currently self-employed.

After honeymooning in Cancun, Mexico, the couple is now living in Lowell.

Leslie Smith and Timothy Moran engaged

Mr. and Mrs. James Knox of Groton and Donald Smith of Newburyport have announced the engagement of their daughter, Leslie Karen to Timothy J. Moran, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Moran of Wilmington.

Leslie, a 1981 graduate of Newburyport High School is employed as an executive secretary by Myles P. Flaherty Assoc., Inc., of Wilmington.

Her fiancé, a 1979 graduate of Wilmington High School and the University of Lowell is employed as a financial analyst by Avco Systems Textron, Tewksbury.

A September, 1987 wedding is planned.

Kathleen Murphy, Robert Jaeschke engaged

Mr. and Mrs. William V. Murphy of 14 Seneca Road, Woburn have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Robert K. Jaeschke, of Wilmington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana W. Scott of Hudson, Florida.

Miss Murphy graduated from Woburn High School and Middlesex Community College. She is employed by Woburn Dental Associates.

Mr. Jaeschke graduated from Wilmington High School and Control Data Institute. He is employed by Daisy Disk Corp., Salisbury.

An October wedding is planned.

Barbara Zaino weds Kevin Callahan

Barbara Zaino, daughter of Arthur and Barbara Zaino of 20 Linda Rd., and Kevin Callahan, son of Hugh and Patricia Callahan of 27 Dadant Drive, were united in marriage Saturday, May 24 at St. Thomas Church in Wilmington.

Father Kearney performed the ceremony.

Serving as matron-of-honor was Cheryl Marr, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids included Kathleen Callahan, sister of the groom; Denise Bannon, Deanna Sampson, Susan Farkas and Dianna Redman, all friends of the bride and groom.

Serving as best man was Michael Callahan, brother of the groom. Ushers included Mark Callahan, Patrick Callahan, and Brian Callahan, also brothers of the groom; Jay Zaino brother of the bride; and Scott Day, friend of the bride and groom.

Serving as ring-bearer and flower girls were Peter Marr and Tara Zaino, nephew and niece of the bride. Serving as altar boys were Gary Zaino, nephew of the bride and Kevin Callahan, nephew of the groom. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Hillview Country Club in North Reading. The couple honeymooned in St. Lucia and is now living in Stoneham.

Barbara is a registered nurse at New England Memorial Hospital. Her husband is a technician at Raytheon in Andover.

Denise Bannon weds David Dunbar

On Saturday, June 28, Denise Lynne Bannon, daughter of William and Joan Bannon of Wilmington, became the bride of David William Dunbar, son of David and Nita Daley also of Wilmington.

The maid of honor was Deborah Bannon, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Susan Dunbar, sister of the groom, Carolyn Larsen of Arlington, Karen Bishop of Wilmington and Barbara Callahan of Stoneham.

Best man was Ronald Dunbar of Sandown, N.H., uncle of the groom. Ushers were Thomas Verengia of Stoughton, cousin of the groom, Andy Dastous, of Lowell, Stephen Larsen of Arlington and Ken Wylie of Haverhill.

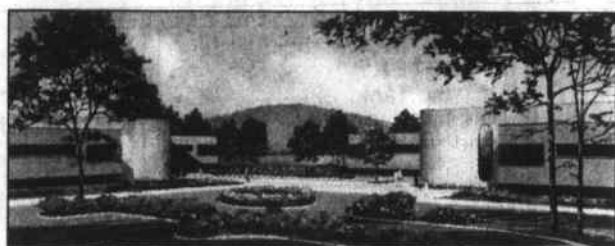

Serving as flower girl was Sharla Gillis and ring bearer was Kenny Gillis of Burlington, cousins of the bride.

The new Mrs. Dunbar is a 1981 graduate of Wilmington High School. Her husband graduated from WHS with the class of 1980.

How many people reading this ad can name their Governor's Councillor?

If you don't know, you're in the majority . . . because our representative to the Governor's Council has been almost invisible since the day he took office!

Let's look at the record:

- Our present Governor's Councillor has the worst attendance record on the Governor's Council. In fact, he missed 15 of the first 32 meetings held this year.
- This year alone, he was absent for the confirmation of 5 judges, including one Essex County probate judge.
- But he showed up to vote for the commutation of a convicted first-degree murderer, without the family of the victim being informed.
- He claims to live in North Andover, but he really lives in Tyngsborough (which is outside the district), and he spends most of his time in Florida. (The North Andover address is really his son's home.)
- He doesn't campaign because he exists on the fact that he has the same last name as a popular U.S. Congressman (even though he's no relation).
- He treats his job as a hobby - working at it whenever he's in town and has the time.

No wonder no one knows who he is . . . he's never done anything worthy of recognition!

Kelley Landolphi will make sure that, as your Governor's Councillor, you will have a vote on important issues like the confirmation of judges, the parole of convicted felons, and the supervision of state contracts and cost overages . . .

Kelley Landolphi will be there, voting for you, not getting a tan in Florida!

Elect a young, intelligent, dedicated public servant . . .

Chamber of Commerce studies changes in board or directors

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is discussing several proposals relative to changing the board of directors. At present there are 18 directors, each serving a three year term. There is no limitation as to the number of terms a director may serve, providing he or she has been duly elected by the membership.

Election is by vote of the members making up the Chamber of Commerce.

Ken Spinelli, of Spinelli Insurance, is chairman of the study committee. The committee has recommended that no director should serve more than six years, without taking a vacation period of at least one year. The purpose is to allow new persons to be elected to the board. At the Sept. 9 meeting of the board of directors the proposal met both approval and disapproval of the individual directors.

Approval, some directors noted, meant that there could be an increase in the number of companies being represented on the board of directors. Companies which have not been represented in the past may find themselves in a position to get representation.

Disapproval came from others. Such a change, it was pointed out, could mean that capable persons, who had served for two terms (six years) and were potential candidates for president would be excluded from that office because his or her term was expiring. Excluding capable persons from consideration as president would be unfair to the Chamber, the directors argued.

Other proposals were also made. No consensus could be reached. Mr. Spinelli was directed to have the committee continue its studies.

FCC rules long distance service can be assigned by random

Telephone customers in the Wilmington exchange area (numbers beginning with 657 and 658) will soon receive a ballot for choosing a long distance company.

The ballot being distributed by the local telephone company is a new procedure in the "equal access" program being implemented across the country.

"Equal access," which becomes available in the Wilmington area on Dec. 13, means customers can opt to keep their AT&T long distance service or select another company that offers direct dialing for calls outside the 617 area.

The Federal Communications Commission has ruled, however, that customers who do not complete and return their ballots to the phone company within a specified time period will be randomly allocated to any one of the long distance companies serving the area.

This rule changes the previous assignment procedure which allowed customers to automatically keep AT&T service if they did not select another long distance company.

Customers can also indicate their choice by directly contacting the long distance company they want.

Wilmington Chamber of Commerce business directory available

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has announced that its new Wilmington Business Directory is now available. It contains listings on over 500 Wilmington firms, showing the approximate number of employees, name of the owner or manager, address, telephone number and a brief business description.

The directory is free to members as a service of the Chamber and may be purchased by non-members for $12.00.

Directories may be picked up at the Chamber office, 195 Main St., from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. any weekday or mail orders may be sent to Box 463, Wilmington, MA 01887.

The Chamber of Commerce is an action agency designed to meet community needs. It is a voluntary organization of individuals and businesses who have banded together to advance the commercial, industrial and civic interests of Wilmington.

Any firm or individual sharing a common interest in Wilmington's improvement is eligible for membership in the Chamber. For more information, call the Chamber office at 657-7211.

Women in Business to meet Sept. 16

The Women in Business Division of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce will begin the fall season with a luncheon meeting beginning at noon on Tuesday, Sept. 16 at the Royal Dynasty Restaurant in Wilmington.

The topic for this month's meeting will be investments. Guest speaker, Alexis C. Korbey, senior vice president and head of the investments division of the Arlington Trust Company, will address this recently-formed group of business and professional women on the choices available to them for investing money to their best advantage.

Meetings of the Women's Division also offers an opportunity for members to network, with all attending given the opportunity to introduce themselves and describe their business and professional needs. Job opportunities, service and product information and other topics also will be shared.

Cost for the luncheon meeting is $8 for members and $10 for non-members. Reservations are required by Friday, September 12 and may be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce at 657-7122.

Upon completion of three courses, participants receive the nationally recognized designation, GRI (Graduate, Realtors Institute). Mrs. Fallon is associated with the Realty World office of Forest-Conant in the Colonial Park Mall in Wilmington.

Liability insurance topic on Sept. 17

The final public hearing of the Governor's Task Force on Liability Insurance Issues will be held on Wednesday, September 17, in Gardner Auditorium at the State House, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Paula W. Gold, secretary of consumer affairs and business regulation and chairman of the task force urges individuals wishing to testify to contact her office no later than noon on Tuesday, September 16 and to prepare written copies of their testimony if possible.

The 20 member task force, appointed last March, is reviewing the problems relating to the availability and affordability of liability insurance in Massachusetts. Thus far, the task force has heard testimony from 86 witnesses representing small businesses, the insurance industry, the legal community, and others who rely upon liability coverage. Twenty-one meetings, including six public hearings have been held around the state.

"During the past several months, the meetings and public hearings held by the task force have provided a forum in which individual concerns about liability insurance could be discussed," said Secretary Gold. "This invaluable input will help the task force to formulate workable solutions to the current problems on behalf of all individuals and organizations seeking affordable coverage."

The task force is expected to make its recommendations to the Governor later this fall.

Tewksbury police news

During the week ending Monday, September 8, the Tewksbury police responded to six alarms, ten accidents and 22 disturbances. Also during the week, 12 larcenies were reported while five arrests were made.

Alarms: On September 3, an alarm was received from a Whipple Road residence, but the building was found to be secure. Two days later an alarm was accidentally set off at a Catamount Road address.

On September 6, the manager of McDonald's on Main Street was called to reset the alarm there, and another alarm was received from Calvert's on that day, again with the building found secure.

Sometime on September 7, a house alarm apparently foiled an attempted break-in of an Apache Way residence. The door was found pried off the hinges but nothing was reported taken. The responding officer left a note and secured the home. Later that day, an alarm was received from a Mt. Joy Road address, again with no problem found.

Accidents: On September 2, an accident was reported at Shawsheen and Main Streets, while on September 4 there were two collisions reported in the town center. September 5 saw accidents reported in front of the Jade East on Main Street and another near the Hula Lau.

On Saturday, September 6, accidents were reported near the town center and on Main Street near the Lil' Peach convenience store. Also on Saturday, collisions took place at Pleasant Street and Whipple Road and at Main Street and Hoover Road. On September 7, one collision took place, this time at East Street and Maple Road.

Disturbances: September first started off a busy week with a report of a broken window at the Dewing School and a report of water from a broken line at St. Mary's cemetery.

On September 2, a Park Avenue resident called to complain of someone cutting down trees on town property. Two reports of egging were received that day, one at a Vale Street residence and another discovered at the drive-up window of the Arlington Trust bank.

Also on September 2, Officer Barry reportedly took a bike down from the flagpole at the Trahan School and brought it to the station, while two windows were found open and nine others broken out at the junior high school and a door was discovered open at the papered and decorated high school. (School was scheduled to start the next day.)

That same day, a small fire was reported behind the bus barn on Clark Road, a broken water line made Marston Street temporarily impassable and the manager of the Wamesit Convenience Store called to report that the phone lines to the store had been cut.

On Wednesday, Officer Stephens reported that the 20 mile per hour warning lights for the schools were either not working or going off at the wrong times. His report noted that the lights were blinking all summer, while school was out.

Also on Wednesday, a car left at the Stadium Plaza was reportedly vandalized and a radio stolen, while later that day a girl allegedly came into the Motel Caswell claiming that she had been abducted and raped by three men in a large car. The trio was not found and no arrests were made.

On Thursday, September 4, a report was taken of excessive noise from a Charles Drive residence. The responding officer stated that a band was practicing at the address and that they stopped when warned.

September 5 saw a report of an armed man allegedly jumping onto a Boston & Maine railroad train near New England Power Road and threatening the engineer before jumping off again. No arrests were made. Also that day a housebreak was reported at a Woodcrest Road address.

On September 6, the janitor of the High School was called about a window discovered open, and a break-in was reported at Sam's package store on Main Street, while a Mass. license plate was reported stolen or lost from a car on Shawsheen Street.

On Sunday, September 7, Officers Carr and Carroll assisted Lowell police in the pursuit of a subject near Stadium Plaza. The suspect was reportedly caught in a nearby bowling alley.

Larcenies: On September 1, an attempted theft of a motor vehicle was discovered and reported by a town resident. The steering column of the car was reported badly damaged. Later that day, a reportedly stolen vehicle bearing a New Hampshire registration and wanted by the Andover PD was found under the power lines near Route 133.

On Wednesday, September 3, a repair plate was reported stolen from B&R Automotive. The owner was told to call the registry of motor vehicles. Later that day a burglar alarm was reported taken from the Wamesit Convenience Store, just one day after the phone lines were reportedly cut. Also on Wednesday, tires and rims were reported stolen from Penney's Auto Body on Kittredge Avenue, and a handbag and $75 in cash was reported taken after a housebreak at a Pinewold Avenue address.

On September 5, a check was reported taken from the briefcase of a Main Street doctor, mail was allegedly stolen from a mailbox on Maple Road and a number of shrubs were reported stolen from an Indian Ridge address.

Also on Friday, a 1985 Pontiac Fiero was reported stolen from the driveway of a Kendall Road address and a 1976 Pontiac Astre was allegedly taken from a Whipple Road address. The Whipple Road car was recovered the next day and an arrest was made in the incident.

On Sunday, a three-speed Raleigh bike with a baby seat was called in as stolen from a Maple Street home.

Arrests: Around 10 p.m. on September 2, Officer John Barry arrested a Tewksbury juvenile during a traffic stop on a charge of operating without a license so to do.

Later that evening, Officer Schwalb of the State Hospital arrested Kevin D. Schultz, 28, of 4 Shawsheen Ct., Lawrence, on charges of trespassing after notice and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon on a police officer.

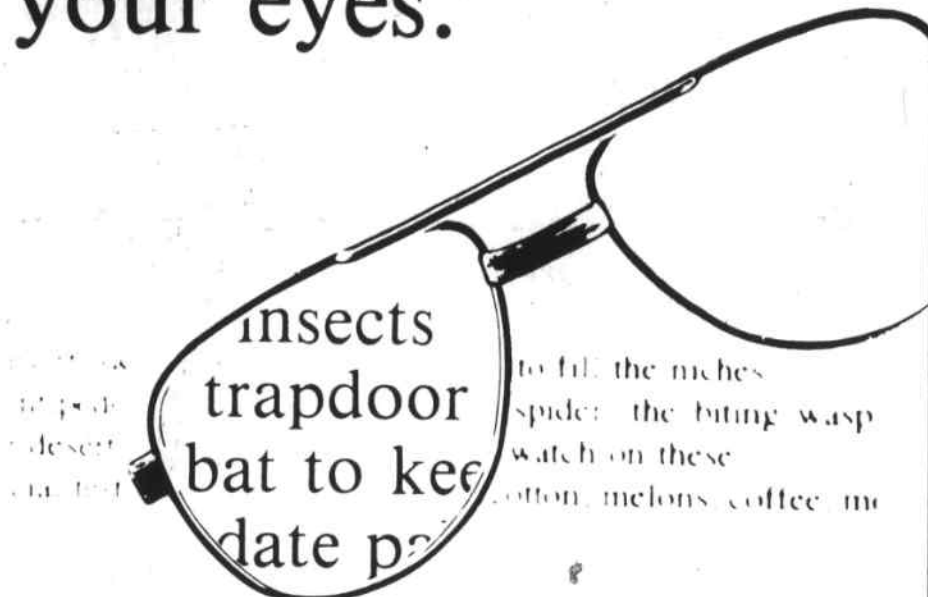

On Thursday, September 4, Sgt. Paul Johnson and Officer Cliff Bolton returned from Logan International Airport with a Tewksbury juvenile in custody on a motor vehicle warrant out of Lowell District Court.

On September 5, Tewksbury Officers Barry and Hazel arrested Christopher Bazzinotti, 19, of 134 Charles Drive, Tewksbury, on a motor vehicle warrant out of Lowell District Court.

On Saturday, September 6, Officers Perry and Bowers arrested Mark S. Capua, 24, of 840 Chandler St., Tewksbury, on charges of larceny of a motor vehicle and operating after suspension.

Servicemen's News

Mark A. Berger

Navy Seaman Mark A. Berger, son of Mildred Wade of Michigan Road, Tewksbury, recently participated in the rescue of 21 Vietnamese refugees.

The combat store ship, USS San Jose, homeported in Guam, was off the coast of Subic Bay, Republic of the Philippines, when a small boat drifting without power was sighted. Upon reaching the distressed vessel, the San Jose crew discovered that the refugees had been adrift 22 out of 24 days they had been at sea. The 21 refugees were immediately taken aboard the Naval ship and given medical treatment for malnutrition and exposure.

A 1984 graduate of Shawsheen Tech, Berger joined the Navy in July 1984.

KEEP THE COUNTY CLEAN!

Bill Schmidt was elected as your Middlesex County Commissioner four years ago to change county government. He promised to cut waste, institute positive reforms, and establish new services on a regional basis if they could be managed effectively and efficiently. He was endorsed by the Boston Globe, the Lowell Sun, the Middlesex News and the Newton Graphic; by Congressman Edward Markey and State Senators Carol Amick and George Bachrach; by State Representatives Michael Barrett, David Cohen, Michael McGlynn, Alfred Minahan and Nicholas Paleologos; by Sheriff Edward Henneberry and many other officials at the local level.

Bill Schmidt has worked hard as Middlesex County Commissioner earning a strong record of accomplishment and a reputation for integrity and independence. Taxes have been cut, county departments have been reorganized, meetings have been opened up to the public, excess county property has been sold in an open manner, buildings have been repaired, plans to modernize the registries of deeds have been started and new programs have been initiated to help drunk drivers, assist refugees and combat child abuse.

Bill Schmidt will continue to fight for what's right in Middlesex County government but he needs your help. He knows that while much has been accomplished, more remains to be done, and it won't be easy. The newspapers know the real story about county government. As Peter Lucas wrote in the Boston Herald, "Right now the county is controlled by reformers (Thomas) Larkin and Bill Schmidt. The third commissioner is veteran Michael McLaughlin, who is best described as a young political hack. ... That two-to-one-reform majority could be reversed if McLaughlin and a like-minded individual take over the county, returning it to the old courthouse gang days that brought us the infamous East Cambridge Court House building scandal."

Bill Schmidt has been endorsed again this year by Congressman Edward Markey and State Representatives David Cohen and Nicholas Paleologos as well as State Senator Jack Backman, State Representatives Geoffrey Beckwith, John Cox, Robert Durand, David Magnani, Susan Schur and Patricia Walrath, County Register of Deeds John Zamparelli and County Treasurer William Gustus, City Councillors Edwin Lucey, Edmund Quin, Frederick Dello Russo, Anthony Giglio, Ray Musetti, David Gately and William Eckland, Aldermen Verne Vance and William Shaevel, Selectmen Joseph Durant, George Lamantea and Kathleen Sullivan, School Committee Members Nancy Birt Pratt, Waldo Lyon, Robert Ricles and Jane Roche Gately, and the United Auto Workers of Framingham. He needs your vote on September 16th in order to make the progress that has already occurred permanent.

Redmen vets begin defense; Wildcats to rebuild

The veteran-laden Tewksbury Redmen begin defense of their Merrimack Valley Conference and Division II crowns, while the young Wilmington Wildcats look to improve upon their 4-6 record of a year ago when both teams begin their 1986 MVC seasons Saturday afternoon.

The Redmen play host to the Dracut Middies, a 2-7-1 team a year ago that will be looking to avenge an opening day rout by the Redmen in 1985.

That 20-3 romp at Dracut got the Redmen off and running enroute to an 11-0 season that was capped by a 24-13 victory over Bridgewater-Raynham in the Division II Super Bowl at Sullivan Stadium.

The achievement of winning a Super Bowl is a memory that will last forever, but that memory of the ultimate achievement brings added pressure to the people who must fill the gaps for graduated TMHS players Rob Aylward, Bob Dunlay, Al Piccolo, Joe Vecchi, Scott Fay, Shawn Blades, Bill Brothers and Chris McHardy.

The biggest gaps were created by the graduation of quarterback Aylward and linebacker Dunlay. Fortunately for the Redmen, they have two very able people to step right in and play with the free-wheeling confidence that Tewksbury coach Bob Aylward requires both offensively and defensively.

Junior Jay Rideout is the quarterback, an "excellent athlete" according to Aylward, who should be able to step right in and run the offense after serving as Rob Aylward's understudy.

The linebacker gap will be filled by senior Dave French, a standout defensive end a year ago.

Tewksbury also has the good fortune to have a slew of veterans returning to the fold that includes superb skill people in running backs Brian Aylward, Kenn Coviello and Tim Boudreau. Having those three super seniors in the same backfield should help take much of the early pressure off Rideout.

For the first time in several seasons, the Redmen also boast several 200-plus pounds returnees up front that include tackle Mike Fitzpatrick and center Jay Kelley.

So, if the letter winners with some limited playing experience develop and Rideout blends in with an experienced backfield, there is every reason to expect that the Redmen can challenge for the title again this season.

All of this points to this writer picking Tewksbury to win the conference crown for the first time in 12 years of covering the team. They are that good.

Coach Ed Harrison and his Wilmington Wildcats are at the other end of the tough MVC spectrum and are hoping to make a respectable run at the top spot with a team that features just four returning experienced seniors in Tom Pote, George MacDonald, David Kelley and Al Ausiello.

The Wildcats also have a new starting quarterback in Dan Woods, and it won't be easy replacing graduated running back Tony Cutone's 14 touchdowns and 933 yards rushing.

Wilmington has always been a gritty bunch willing to battle, and Harrison is a resourceful coach when it comes to making an offense productive.

It could be a major struggle, however, especially with a very deep Chelmsford team to open the season.

Not to worry, Joe

Tewksbury High School assistant coach Joe DelGrosso wears a worried expression as he puts his running backs through their paces at Monday afternoon's practice session. Not to worry, Joe. The defending Division II champions open with the Dracut Middies Saturday at Doucette Field. Game time is 1:30.

Brian ready

Senior running back Brian Aylward is coming off an excellent preseason as the Redmen get set to play for real against Dracut Saturday.

Few gaps

TMHS coach Bob Aylward shows Pat Green a defensive technique Monday. The Redmen have few holes to fill as they get ready to defend their title.

Health race September 28

Choate-Symmes Health Services' sixth annual road race, "Health is Number One," will take place Sunday, Sept. 28.

The five-mile event will start at Tower Park on Massachusetts Avenue in Lexington (near Seasons Four) at 12 noon. Runners will proceed onto Maple Street and Lowell Street, across the Arlington town line near the Arlington reservoir, make a loop at Arlington Heights back onto Massachusetts Avenue for the finish back at Tower Park.

T-shirts will be given to all entrants, and medals will be presented to the first three male and female finishers in 11 age categories: 18 and under; 19-24; 25-29; 30-34; 40-45; 45-49; 50-54; 55-59; 60-64 and 65 and over. Merchandise prizes will be awarded to the top 20 finishers overall, and additional merchandise prizes will be awarded by random drawing.

The race will be timed according to a digital clock, and computerized results will be available immediately afterward.

Visible mile markers and water stations at the two and four mile marks will be provided, as will refreshments after the race, compliments of the Choate-Symmes Food Service Department.

Entry fee is $5.00 if posted by Sept. 23 and $7.00 after that date. Registrations will also be accepted on race day beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Entry blanks are available by contacting Frank Niro, Choate Hospital, 21 Warren Ave., Woburn, 933-6700, Ext. 182.

3 WEEKS for $99 SPECIAL

I kept gaining and losing the same 20 pounds. Then I said, this time it's going to be different.

I tried every pill, every gimmick to lose weight. Only to feel miserable when I gained it all back. Finally I said no, never again—this time I'm going to Diet Center. I lost the weight, without hunger. And I'm keeping it off.

My only regret? Not going sooner!

The outdoors column

by Bill Conlon

While the calendar says it's still summertime, at least technically, any true Yankee will tell you that fall has begun.

But don't hang up your fishing tackle in favor of hunter's wool just yet. The fish are still very much active, the other fisherfolk are busy with other things, and the scenery only gets better from here.

Now that the water temperatures have started to drop (as if they were ever up in this rainy summer) the trout are becoming active once more. Baddacook pond in Groton, out on Route 40, is rumored to be one of the local hotspots for pond trout. Turn right on Route 40 about a half-mile or so before the white church in Groton center and just stick to the right. Can't miss it.

The deepest spot on Baddacook is off the pine-covered point directly across from public boat launch. Try trolling with spinners along the point for some autumn rainbows.

By the way, the Division of Fisheries and Wildlife does indeed make fall stockings of trout to area lakes and streams. The Nissitisset and Squanacook Rivers out in the Townsend area are also hot when the weather grows cool. Give 'em a shot.

For bass fishing, stick closer to shore this time of year and don't bother staying out much after dark. Then again, bass fishing on the midnight shift has been pretty poor all summer. Don't run the risk hypothermia chasing moonlight bass this late in the year.

During the day the bass are in the shallows (up to ten feet deep) looking to put on a few pounds before the ice forms. I had a thoroughly outrageous time this past weekend using red rubber worms on Lake Mascuppic in Tyngsboro, so worms come highly recommended.

Also, word has it that the mighty Merrimack is producing bass up to the four-pound range, mostly smallmouths. Take it from one who's caught both, a smallmouth is twice the fight, pound-for-pound, of any largemouth ever spawned.

Incidentally, the Greater Lowell Fly Fishers group has a bass-only tournament set for September 21 on the river, so it's doubly-nice to know the bass are going to cooperate.

For those who prefer the brine, word out of Plum Island is that the bluefish are chasing the mackerel closer to shore as the mercury dips. Fishing buddy Dave Stevens of Chelmsford recently hauled a nasty-tempered blue out of the Plum Island surf that stretched to some 33-odd inches. Dave said it was that big, but who believes a fisherman anyway?

So, while the squirrel season is already open in the western half of the Commonwealth, there's still a ton of fish to be caught before the ice gets here.

Big buck

Bowhunter Noel Feather, shown here with one of his three Boone & Crockett club ranked bucks, will be one of the celebs in attendance at the New England Deer Hunting Show and Seminar on September 28.

Of course, once the ice is safe enough to support a B-52 then the cold weather fishing REALLY goes great guns. Ooh, I can hardly wait! C'mon winter!

Tackle Box--

The Tewksbury Rod & Gun club Hunter Safety course is holding its second session this Thursday, Sept. 11. Course director George Rost said late sign-ups would be accepted until the second class, so this is the last chance until next year. Class starts at 7 p.m. at the club's Chandler Street quarters.

A New England Deer Hunting Show and Seminar will be held from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m., on Sept. 28 at the Holiday Inn in Manchester, N.H. All aspects of deer hunting will be discussed, with enough displays and discussions to keep any hunter busy. Advance registration is $10 and the cost will be $12 at the door. Info is available at (603) 569-1338.

As stated above, the GLFF will be holding a bass tourney on the Merrimack on Sept. 21, from 7 a.m. until 2 p.m., with cash prizes of $300, $200 and $100 given out for the heaviest fish. Ties will be broken by length.

An added bonus will be a free children's tourney during the day at the contest headquarters across from Heritage Ice Cream on the boulevard, with trophies handed out for the three biggest catches. For the grown-ups, the Tyngsboro bridge and Duck Island will be the upper and lower boundaries on the river.

Sports deadline

The Town Crier sports deadline is Monday night at 6 p.m. Any youth or high school sports copy received after the deadline runs the risk of not being included in that week's section.

Tewksbury spring soccer registration

Spring registration

Registration for all Tewksbury Youth Soccer spring travel teams and intramural teams will take place Thursday and Friday, Sept. 11 and 12 at the town hall from 7 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon.

The travel teams this spring will be: Boys under 19; boys under 16; boys under 14; and boys under 12; girls under 16, girls under 14; and girls under 12. Tryouts will be Sept. 27 and Oct. 4. Times and locations of tryouts will be announced at registration.

The intramural teams will consist of boys and girls mixed for ages under 14, under 12, and under 10. Ages are based as of January 1, 1987. Registration fee is $20.00, with an adjustment to be made for traveling teams upon their selection.

Clinic registration

Registration for the Tewksbury Youth Soccer League Clinics (ages five or over and under eight by Jan. 7, 1987) will take place at town hall Thurs., Sept. 18 and Fri., Sept. 19 from 7 to 9 p.m. and Sat., Sept. 20 from 9 a.m. The registration fee is $20.00.

Awards night

Trophies will be presented to the 1986 intramural champions on Monday, Sept. 15 at the town hall at 7 p.m. The recipients are under 10, the Earthquakes; under 12, the Spartans; and under 14, the Toros.

Bodybuilding Classic October 25

The fourth annual A.A.U. sanctioned Mr./Ms. Merrimack Valley Bodybuilding Classic will be held Saturday, October 25 at the Lowell High School auditorium. Pre-judging will begin at 3:30 p.m. The finals, which include freestyle posing and awards ceremony, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The classic is pleased to announce that Marlon Darton of Tucson, Arizona will be the guest poser at this event.

Marion holds the titles of 1985 Mr. World (Tall Class) and Mr. America (Tall Class) and is currently training for the 1986 Mr. Universe and Mr. America.

He will be conducting a bodybuilding seminar, which will begin at 6 p.m. This will be open to anyone who may be interested in attending.

The competition will consist of three men's divisions: Mr., Teenage, and Masters over 35, and one women's division: Ms.

There will be three height classes in the Mr., two height classes in the

Ms. and one in the Teen and Masters divisions.

Competitors must be A.A.U. members. If potential competitors are not A.A.U. members, a sanctioning fee of $10.00 must be enclosed with the entry fee of $8.00.

Confirmation letters and directions will be sent to all contestants.

Tickets are on sale now for $6.50 or are available at the door for $7.50.

Last year's competition was a huge success, attracting 45 competitors and over 1000 spectators.

This year's competition promises to be even better. The Mr./Ms. Merrimack Valley Bodybuilding Classic is an excellent chance for area bodybuilders to experience the excitement of competing in a quality competition.

For further information, contact Craig Dadoly, 136 Forest Park Rd., Dracut, Ma. 01826 or call (617) 957-1544.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending September 9, Wilmington police officers responded to 10 accidents, 33 alarms, three break and entries, three domestic problems and four larcenies. Other departments were assisted twice and eight disturbances were quieted.

Medical assistance was given three times, 13 arrests and three protective custody detentions were made. Three vehicles were reported stolen, eight incidents of suspicious activity were checked out.

Three trespassing complaints were taken along with five trailbike complaints, three threat complaints and three traffic complaints. Six incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Among the items reported stolen last week were car radios, stereos, a wallet and jewelry.

Arrests

Wednesday night Officer Frank Hancock arrested Robert Parsons, 36, of 1105 Livingston St., Tewksbury charging him with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He was held for Woburn Court on Thursday. Parsons was also wanted by the Andover police on the basis of a default warrant issued by Lawrence District Court.

Sgt. Duffy arrested Steven Gouveia, 26, of Muller Road, Burlington Thursday morning after a computer check revealed a default warrant issued by Concord police.

Late Friday night Inspector Jepson and Sgt. Shepard arrested two men on drug related charges. Wayne Breton, 22 of 47 Chestnut St., Somerville and John Brady, 23 of 1 Nunn Rd., Wilmington were both charged with possession of class B and D controlled substances. They were both bailed for an appearance in Woburn Court.

Monday morning.

Breton was arrested by the same inspectors two weeks ago and charged with possession with intent to distribute class B drugs.

Officer Chris Neville arrested two local youths on alcohol charges Friday night. Michael Maiella, 18, of Sheridan Road and Kenneth DeYoung, 20 of Sparhawk Road were both charged with underage possession of alcoholic beverages.

A Reading man was arrested early Saturday morning by Officer Robert Richter after a computer check revealed a default warrant issued by Lawrence police. Robert Roux, 18 Union St., Reading was bailed from Wilmington to appear in Lawrence Court.

Michael Andrews, 18 of 2 Westdale Avenue, Wilmington turned himself in at the station as the result of warrants being issued for him charging him with larceny of a motor vehicle and larceny of property over $100. He was held on bail for the weekend and taken to court Monday morning.

A Somerville man was arrested at DeMoulas Market Friday afternoon by Officers LeGrand and Chalifour after the officers investigated a shoplifting incident at the super market.

Officers LeGrand and Chalifour arrested a Burlington man after a warrant check revealed Brookline and Framingham warrants. Thomas Svenson, 31 of Sunset Road was bailed, pending appearances in Brookline and Framingham courts.

Shortly after 1 a.m. Monday, Officer Steve Mauriello arrested David Romano, 18, charging him with operating without being properly licensed and failing to stop on the signal of a police officer.

Wilmington senior topicsBack to the Future

Apologies to the seniors who went to see the movie "Back to the Future" at the Center last Thursday. Video Paradise who generously donated the vcr to the seniors, is also holding movies we select for showing on Thursdays. "Back to the Future" is a very popular movie, when it came in it was put away for us. Unfortunately the person who put it away was not in the store and it could not be found.

Late in the day it was found and will be shown this Thursday. It is an excellent movie, which has not been shown on tv yet. We know you will enjoy it if you have not seen it. And if you have you know how funny it was and will want to see it again. You will be glad you returned to see it this Thursday starting at 1:30 p.m. in the function room.

Dancing Sept. 17

Dancing will be starting at the Center Wednesday, Sept. 17. The dance class under the instruction Steve White, a professional dance teacher, will be from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. The first half hour will be brushing up on old steps and learning new steps in ballroom dancing.

The last half will be new and old line dances. No matter how good we think we are as dancers there is always room for improvement and to learn new dances. You may remain on the floor an additional hour if you wish to practice what you have learned with other members of the class.

Dancing is not only an excellent way to relax and enjoy yourself while making new friends, it is also a very good way to exercise. The more exercise we receive under professional instructors the more our bodies will benefit. The Council is making these classes available to the seniors for 10 weeks at $1.00 a week. If you were to take these lessons on your own, the cost would be $35.00 to $40.00 for 10 weeks.

Fair coming up

We hope all of our seniors are busy making articles for the fair, which will be held in early December. We will need mittens of all sizes and colors. Last year we received enough to fill a very large table and every pair was sold. This year we will need even more. Any help you can give will be greatly appreciated. The fair this year will be held in our new beautiful building and the arts and crafts committee is hoping to make it the best ever. But to make it a success they will need the help of all the seniors.

We will need more at the craft sessions on Tuesday and Thursday to complete projects that the committee is planning. They also need seniors with a talent to help set up new projects to work on at the sessions. The room is large enough to set up any tables to work. We need you!

More and more seniors

With the fall almost upon us, we are seeing more and more of our seniors coming to the center. This pleases us very much. Conversation and companionship cannot be found sitting at home watching television, as these seniors have found out.

Wilmington seniorsWeek of September 15

Monday: Liver with onions, whipped potato, buttered peas, bread and butter, brownies with nuts and milk.

Tuesday: Chilled juice, stuffed shells with meat sauce, tossed salad, french bread and butter, apple and milk.

Wednesday: Salisbury steak with onions and peppers, gravy on the side, fluffy rice, buttered green beans, jello with topping and milk.

Thursday: Oven baked chicken, whipped potato, winter squash, cranberry sauce, bread and butter, pudding with topping and milk.

Friday: Fish dinner, newburg sauce optional, creamy mashed potato, buttered carrots, wheat or white bread and butter, cookies or ice cream and milk.

Every day we have programs at the center where you can become actively involved in classes or activities. If you are newly retired have recently moved into the town of have lost your spouse, activities at the center can help you adjust and fill your days.

Hot lunch program

The hot lunch program will be resuming on Monday, September 8 starting at 12:30 p.m. at the West Intermediate School. Call the Center to reserve a meal for the day, either the day before or the Friday before if you are reserving for the week.

The therapeutic exercise class resumed September 8. It is held Monday and Wednesday mornings from 10 to 11 under the instruction of Nancy Imbriano trained in the proper physical exercise for elder persons.

The arts and crafts sessions have resumed in the craft room Tuesday and Thursday all day. Dancing Wednesday from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.; bridge on Tuesday from 1 to 2 p.m.; movie Thursday at 1:30; beano Friday at 1:30 p.m.

We have been asked to start a cribbage or chess program. If any senior is interested in either of these games call the Center at 657-7595.

Some small hopes for young house hunters

Glut of houses, lower interest rates

By JIM ROUILLARD

There's a house in Wilmington for sale.

The asking price is $106,000.

It's easy to clean — there's some land with it — certainly enough for a flower and vegetable garden.

Not bad, in today's real estate market — for a place of your own to hang your hat and watch little things — like children — grow.

Just don't let them grow too much.

The number of rooms in the house is three.

Burlington offers condominiums in the $60,000 range.

But add to the mortgage payments an additional $400-plus monthly fee — and the offer may not seem quite so attractive.

By hook, crook and condo, residents of Boston's northern suburbs are all eager, even desperate, for affordable housing.

But what's affordable?

And who can afford it?

A local doctor, with a thriving practice and a working husband to boot, recently said the adjacent houses going up in her neighborhood are beyond her means.

So who CAN afford it?

Working couples, preferably childless, with an income range of $40,000 per annum, who are willing to make a few sacrifices, can afford it. But not without struggle and some hard choices, according to local realtors.

There are, however, some small reasons for hope.

Among them?

Declining interest rates, more attractive mortgage packages available from banks, and, ironically, the chain effect of the very panic which helped to launch area real estate costs to their present sky-rocket levels.

You may, in fact, have already noticed the surprising phenomenon, occurring lately along tree-lined streets in Middlesex County:

"For Sale" signs on houses are going up, and staying up longer than it takes for the first car or pedestrian to pass by.

Part of this relative slowdown in housing sales, according to Wakefield realtor Christopher M. Barrett, is just the usual seasonal slack in sales during the summer months. The market pace has started to pick up, also as usual, in fact, with the approach of fall, Barrett added.

But the chain effect which Barrett described is helping keep properties on the market longer:

"One person sees a house which may be overpriced by 25 to 50 thousand dollars," he said, "so others feel they can get more than their houses are worth. And a lot of people who aren't in mainline real estate, just don't want to listen to a broker, so they don't realize what their houses are really worth."

Conversely, he said he occasionally sees a house go for well below its market value, for the same reason: that the seller isn't conversant with current market values. He cited the case of an elderly woman whose house, easily worth $350,000, went for $240,000.

Yet it doesn't just hit the elderly, and elders may be just as likely as others to think that their homes are worth more than they are, so the property stays on the "board" longer.

Yet he doesn't foresee a resumption of the frenzy that has frightened, and even panicked, prospective home buyers, in the spiralling increase in area housing costs of the past few years.

Barrett, and his mother Marilyn, members of a family-owned 28-year-old Wakefield realty firm, provided the grist for whatever hope is available to would-be homeowners in the still-expensive housing market.

And though he sees residential property continuing to appreciate in the coming year, the younger Barrett does not envision the phenomenal rates of 25 to 35 percent that the area has recently seen.

Why not?

Well, right now, there's more property for sale on the Eastern Middlesex board (region). Available residential property, in fact, he estimated, has doubled since this time last year.

The properties, moreover, are staying on the market longer, he added, enabling buyers to get in and look at everything without feeling the pressure to grab whatever offers.

Interest rates have gone down and will continue to decline, Barrett predicted, advising prospective buyers to "lock in" their interest rate as near to the closing date as possible.

In other words, the bank providing the mortgage, he said, may want to lock in the interest rate on the date of application — but if it takes 60 to 90 days between application and closing, the later interest rate could be better for the purchaser.

Median price for a home in Wakefield is about $152,000 to

MIDDLESEX EAST

Over 150,000 Readers

Supplement

$155,000. Reading and Stoneham are roughly in the same range — pricy — and North Reading is getting up there. Lynnfield is very pricy, as is Winchester, they report, with Woburn, Burlington, Wilmington and Tewksbury likely to be more affordable.

A house in Wakefield recently went on the market for $126,000 and the agency was deluged with calls. But for most who can afford housing only in the "modest" $120 to $140-thousand range, look west to Framingham or the South Shore.

Desirability of residing in this area is obvious. Its location is prime, 14 miles from Boston, two minutes from routes 128 and 93, and 20 minutes from Waltham, chief cluster on the high-tech industry necklace that arcs around Boston's suburbs.

Stressing that young couples can purchase a house, if they're willing to sacrifice, Marilyn Barrett outlined the probable areas of sacrifice.

Though house and family are concepts that traditionally go hand in hand, the economy and the high-priced north suburban real estate market may be helping to fragment those joint concepts.

"The young couples in the market for a house are both working," Mrs. Barrett says. "Most do not have children — or may have one, or two at the absolute most."

If they want to have a family

New to America

Second in a two-part series

"She's a beautiful lady," I told him, "but if you thought carrying on a long distance relationship was hard the first time, consider what you're getting into with this girl."

"I have," he said. "And we both agree that it doesn't matter. We both love each other very much."

I decided not to get any further involved, and to just let Dudley fly with his new love. As time went on I began to sense that my initial fears for his well-being were unfounded. She remained faithful to him while he was away, and when he was here, they seemed more in love than any couple I'd ever met. Even the age difference seemed to diminish as time went by. Then during one of his recent visits he dropped a bomb: "We've decided to get married," he revealed. "Cynthia's going to come over to England to live with me."

I congratulated him. I wished them both the best of luck. That was the last time I saw the both of them together. Dudley arrived back in the States a week ago. He showed up at my doorstep and said he needed to talk. We went to a nearby restaurant, and over appetizers and beer he revealed how things had taken a turn for the worse.

"You won't believe this," he said. "I just narrowly escaped being arrested just a little more than an hour ago."

I was shocked. I'd known this man for more than eighteen months and never would I have expected him to make a statement like that. Not even if he was referring to something as minor as a parking violation. I could tell by the graveness in his voice that he wasn't going to tell me he'd just been arrested for failing to put on his seat belt.

"It's a confusing story," he went on. "But here goes."

For the next hour he went through every detail of what had happened to him over that last couple of weeks. It was, indeed, confusing at first, but finally I began to sort the pieces out and put them back together again. Apparently this is the chain of events in his life over the last fifteen days or so:

Dudley's new job did not pan out. He discovered that his boss was involved in a corrupt scandal, one in which Dudley would have to become involved if he ever hoped to keep his position as overseas sales director. Immediately following this discovery, Dudley handed in his resignation. His moral fiber refused to allow him to become associated with such a ruthless employer who would go to any extreme to horde together

WE TURN THE TABLES ON UNWANTED FAT.

If you subscribe to the "no pain, no gain" theory of inch loss, you're in for a pleasant surprise. Because at Slender You® Figure Salons, six motorized tables do the hard work for you. It's a concept we call the No-Sweat Workout.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

Unlike traditional forms of exercise, which often build muscle (and lead to strain and soreness), the Slender You® No-Sweat Workout tones and firms your body, while breaking down unwanted "cellulite."

Each table exercises a different part of your body—hips, stomach, legs and upper arms. And afterward, you actually feel refreshed and invigorated, not tired and out of breath.

YOUR FIRST VISIT'S FREE.

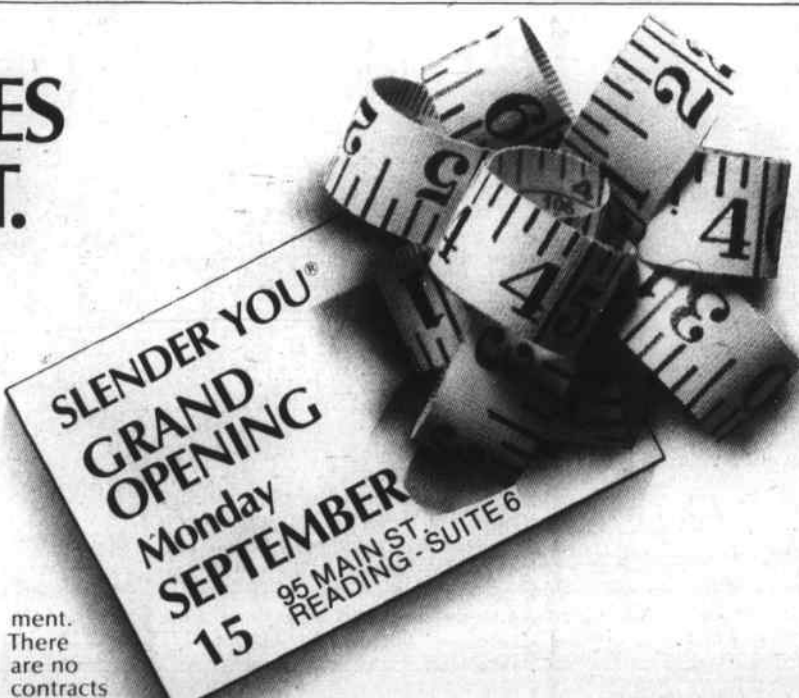

At Slender You®, your first workout and figure analysis are absolutely free. No gimmicks. No obligation. Just give us a try, and then decide whether to make another appointment.

NO MEMBERSHIP FEES.

We're not asking for a commitment. There are no contracts to sign, and no expensive memberships. Simply pay as you go and quit whenever you like. So try the Slender You® workout. It's a great way to turn the tables on those extra pounds and inches.

Open Mon - Sat, 7 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Houses

they're faced with a simple but essential choice: one career is likely to be sacrificed.

Beyond the loss of one career, other sacrifices are virtually guaranteed for the young couple: they may have to give up a new car, any vacations, and even simply going out to dinner.

For single parents, a house is virtually out of the question in today's market.

And most young couples who are buying are getting substantial help — often with the down payment supplied by parents.

Along with the increasing rate of parental down payments are the more prevalent phenomena of equity sharing, co-signing by parents to provide the collateral and iron-clad certainty which make a deal more likely to appeal to a bank, and the purchase of two-family homes by separate couples.

With equity-sharing and co-signing, however, may come a danger: that the young couple is supplying as much as 40 percent of their annual gross income to pay their mortgage, whereas banks generally feel more comfortable with the couple providing 28 to 33 percent of their income for their monthly mortgage payments.

Translated to approximate costs, the monthly payment on a $100,000 mortgage is roughly $1,000 a month. And so, it follows, must come parental down payments, which may mean the setting up of a gift letter ("We, the parents of so-and-so, agree to pay the sum of such-and-such," and the addition of more names to deeds to gain the okay for the bank loan.

And then come the sacrifices. Yet one of the sacrifices may yield benefits to the young family the couple may be raising or hope to raise. If both members of the couple are working — and it means a night job for the wife — it can also mean the father is able to spend more quality time with his family.

THE BARRETTS OF ALBION STREET: Marilyn and Christopher, mother and son members of long-established Wakefield realty firm, comment on difficulty for young couples to find and purchase their first homes — but offer some tips and some hope.

But the sacrifices are clearly worth it, Marilyn Barrett feels, who concluded with advice to young marrieds, to buy a house, or a condo as a good way to start, in order to be building equity instead of throwing away rent.

"If you have to work for a year, that's what you have to sacrifice. But you've first got to get into the market — and you have to be willing to sacrifice something to get into the market."

Then, once you've got the house — you can worry about who does the cleaning.

money that didn't belong to him.

Dudley phoned Cynthia to inform her of the bad news. At first she seemed to understand. Then Dudley explained that it would also mean a slight delay in their getting married and her moving to the UK.

"Even this news didn't seem to bother her," Dudley went on. "But then she mentioned that she needed to get out of the house she was living in right away, and that if she couldn't come to England, she'd have to do something about her living accommodations immediately."

Dudley asked her to wait until he got to America before making any decisions to move out.

To the Science Museum

The dinosaurs return

Growing their way out of the misty, murky prehistoric past, six gigantic dinosaurs will take over the Boston Museum of Science this fall when the Return of the Dinosaurs exhibition opens on Tuesday, September 15 and continues through November 30, 1986.

Return of the Dinosaurs, as the name implies, marks the second visit of mighty Brontosaurus to the Museum and this time he's bringing some of his close friends: One is Triceratops, a three horned behemoth that stood ten feet high, weighed six tons and browsed the plains of Montana, Wyoming and Canada in the Cretaceous period around 70 million years ago. Joining it will be Pachycephalosaurus, which means thick-headed lizard, it walked, 20 feet tall on its hind legs and roamed North America during the same period.

From the earlier Jurassic period of 150 million years ago comes Stegosaurus it was 30 feet long and had two rows of 30 inch high plates running along his back and tail. From Texas and Oklahoma the oldest land living carnivore, Dimetrodon, joins the assembly sporting an enormous back fin that controlled its body temperature 250 million years ago. Tyrannosaurus Rex, the largest and the last of the giant carnosaurs, rounds out the group. All seven tons of it terrorized North America and China during the late Cretaceous period some 100 million years ago.

The awesome sixsome has delighted children and adults alike in museum appearances across the country. They move, make sounds, breathe and even have reptile-like skin. Although the creatures are half life-size they are still enormous in human terms.

The Museum's Education and Exhibits Departments have designed hands-on displays and activities to give New Englanders living in 1986 a tangible sense of what the dinosaurs were all about. One whole section of the Museum will become the Dinosaurs Activities Den where visitors will find a Dinosaur Foot Print Forest, a Dinosaur Nest with eggs, a Dinosaur Tree where visitors can compare their size with that of various dinosaurs and many other games of discovery.

Museum hours are daily 9 A.M. to 5 P.M., Friday 9 A.M. to 9 P.M. Closed Mondays, except holidays and Mass. school vacations. Admission is $5 for adults, $4 for college students with I.D., $3 for children (4-16) and senior citizens (age 65+). Children 3 and under, and museum members are admitted free.

He encountered Cynthia's roommate first. "I could tell by the way she was acting that something was wrong," he said. "She kept saying things like 'I don't want you causing any trouble,' but I couldn't figure out what she meant."

It turned out that what she meant was this: Cynthia's new "roommate" was on his way over to the apartment to have a chat with Dudley about Cynthia. "We heard some noise down the hall. It sounded like two people arguing vehemently."

At this point I saw a side of Dudley I had never seen before. His face became bright red with anger; he clenched his fist and gritted his teeth. He then went on to explain that he'd become overwrought with bitterness and anger, and refused to walk away from the apartment without giving this chap a chance to say his piece. Now let me say this about Dudley: he was a member of the British army and fought heroically in Malaysia in the late fifties.

"I was well-trained in hand-to-hand combat," he indicated. "We were particularly well-trained in how to handle a knife. So the first thing that came to mind when I heard the yelling in the hallway and this chap approaching was to grab a knife."

Dudley reached into the drawer next to the kitchen sink and pulled out a steak knife. "In the army I was trained to put the knife here" — he leaned forward and pointed to the small of his back — "which enables you to move in any direction. I placed the knife in the back of my pants, preparing myself in case this guy decided he was going to be an idiot."

Cynthia's roommate panicked when she saw Dudley go for the knife. As the door to the apartment opened, she lunged for the knife and pulled it from Dudley's pants. The knife went spinning across the kitchen floor. By now Cynthia's new roommate was standing in front of Dudley, but to Dudley's surprise he wasn't at all what he'd expected.

"The guy turned out to be a wimp. I felt sorry for the guy, and thought to myself, well, if this is what Cynthia wants, she can have it."

Meanwhile, Cynthia's roommate called the police. Cynthia was now in the apartment also, and urging Dudley to leave before any more trouble erupted.

"I decided that that was the best bet, to get out of there before the police arrived. That's all I would have needed, to have ended up in one of your American jails."

Cynthia's new roommate never did get a chance to say his piece. However, Cynthia managed to get a few words in before Dudley disappeared out the door.

"She tried to tell me that she still loved me, but that this guy was willing to put her up for free. That this was what she needs right now. I thought to myself, there's no way this guy is just doing this out of the goodness of his heart. I said the hell with it, walked out and went directly to your place."

Although he had calmed down considerably in the hour it took to tell the story, I knew he was still feeling pretty uptight. It was obvious that he was wrestling with a solution to the problem. Finally he verbalized it.

"I think what is best is for me to go back to my hotel room, take the phone off the hook, never speak to Cynthia again, and then go back home."

I agreed that that was probably best. He went on: "You know, all my life I've tried to be a good man to appease my faith. But now I have the desire to not be so good. And I don't like it. I don't want to be a bad guy. I want to remain a good person. What good will it do for me to become a mean man? Not one bit."

I assured Dudley that he had too much courage to become a mean person, and that eventually all this, too, would be behind him and probably forgotten.

Dudley returned to the UK the other morning. It was a sad departure. For the first time since I've known him I truly felt as though it might be for good. He was feeling pretty down the last time I saw him. Then I remembered that I wasn't dealing with just any friend. Dudley was truly different. He had more courage than most people I know, and in spite of a few bad breaks, he has the ability to bounce back faster than any one I know. I'm sure that it'll be just a matter of days before another one of those post cards arrives. Knowing Dudley the way I do, it'll probably end with "See you in two weeks."

Now that would be good news.

PARENT-CHILD WORKSHOP

Reading Camp Fire will sponsor a parent-child workshop, "Growing Up Safe," on Wednesday, September 17, 6:30 to 8 p.m. at First Baptist Church in Reading (Woburn and Linden Streets). The workshop focuses positively on protecting children when they are outside their homes by teaching safe habits and common-sense decision-making skills. Preregistration is required, and children must be accompanied by a parent. To preregister, send a check for $2.25 per person, along with the number of adults and children being registered, to Leslie Fuller, 450 Summer Avenue, Reading. For more information, call 944-3544 or 944-8769.

AUDITIONS

The Mystic Valley Orchestra, under the music direction of Ronald Feldman, cellist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has openings for all strings, brass and selected woodwinds.

The Mystic Valley Orchestra's 1986-87 concert season includes performances of works by Bruckner, Stravinsky, Debussy, Mozart, Beethoven and a world premiere by Robert Kyr.

Concerts are held in three communities: Framingham, Lexington and Cambridge. Rehearsals are held weekly, on Sunday evenings from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in Belmont at the First Parish Church, 404 Concord Avenue.

For more information, please call the Mystic Valley Orchestra personnel manager, Beth Ford, at 731-5531.

9:29ers at AARP meeting Friday

A return engagement for a popular pair is the musical program planned for the first meeting of Chapter 1124 AARP (more formally known as the American Association of Retired Persons) to be held on Friday, September 12 at 1:30 P.M. at the Melrose Highlands Congregational Church, 355 Franklin Street, Melrose. President Carolyn Norton of Melrose, will preside.

final report on the two September trips planned, which members are looking forward to. Thursday, September 18 is the one day trip to Heritage Plantation, with a buffet luncheon at the Daniel Webster Inn. September 23, 24 and 25 are the three days involved with the special motor coach trip to the Samoset Resort Hotel in Rockport, Maine. Both buses still have space, but a call to Carol Johnson (665-1796) might show a space still available for the day trip. Further trips will soon be announced.

Melrose Chapter 1124 of AARP, Inc. is a regional unit and cities included on the chapter's roster are: Melrose, Malden, Lynnfield, Wakefield, Stoneham. However, members from Woburn, Saugus and Wilmington are joining the ranks.

Meetings are held on the second Friday of each month, September through June, at the Melrose Highlands Congregational Church, 355 Franklin Street, Melrose. If there is no school in Melrose, there will be no AARP meeting. New members and guests are always welcome. Call Helen Fazio, Membership Chairman, at 438-3473 for further information.

MARLENE TUTELA, a Wilmington High School senior, was crowned Massachusetts Photogenic Model 1986 at the Sheraton Mansfield last Friday evening. Among the prizes she received were a tiara, sash, portfolio, trophy and the opportunity to compete in the national modeling pageant to be held in the Berkshires in October, where prizes in excess of $15,000 will be awarded the winner. Marlene is a graduate of both Finishing Touch Modeling School in Lowell and Barbizon Modeling School of Boston. Her goals after graduating High School are to attend a four year college to pursue a career in the arts and to continue her modeling career.

Back to school winners at Woburn Mall

Ray Warren, Marketing director at the Woburn Mall has announced the prize winners of the recent Back to School Contest, drawn on Aug. 23.

Grand prize winners won a total of $500 in Mall Bucks, enabling them to spend their prize money in any of the participating Woburn Mall retail stores.

Winners of the $100 prizes were Nick Geannaris, Winchester; Elsie Ray, Wilmington and Terry Dokus, Winchester.

Fifty dollar winners were Helen Dill, Reading; Tara Conwell, Reading; John Pacino, Reading and Paul Deteso, Woburn.

includes both gym and art activities. Also for 2-4 year olds is a new class called Giant Steps. In this class your child will enjoy a stimulating learning environment that incorporates numbers, letters, science, cooking, crafts, stories and more. Both Worlds to Explore and Giant Steps have classes with parent for young toddlers and without parent for the older child.

Another new class this fall is Ready, Set, Go, a class especially designed to help 3 year olds get ready for school. This class meets twice a week. Also new on the schedule this fall is Crafts-R-Us a 45 minute craft class for 3-5 year olds. Along with these new classes are some old favorites. Gym & Swim a 45 minute gym class combined with a 30 minute swim lesson, Kids Can Cook, a basic cooking class for preschoolers, and Tiny Tumblers and Tumblebugs both preschool gymnastic classes are all back by popular demand.

So don't delay a second longer call the YMCA at 935-3270 to guarantee your child a space. For more information about any of the classes contact Kathy at the YMCA, 137 Lexington Street, Woburn at 935-3270. All classes are limited in size.

Devlin scholarship winners

The Trustees of the Dr. Thomas P. and Edwina H. Devlin Medical Scholarship Fund are pleased to announce that $6,000 in scholarships were awarded to six medical students and five nursing students from Melrose, Reading, Stoneham, Winchester and Woburn. Banquet ceremonies were held Tuesday, August 12, at the China Moon, Stoneham.

In attendance were Trustees: Jennie Bing-You, Frank Bracciotti, Jo Devlin, Peter Devlin, and Wil Eldridge; also recipients: Bill Bishai, Koreine deMars, Patricia Devlin, Anne DiNapoli, Debra Doherty, Patricia Jordan, Kevin Maguire, Mary-Jo Nugent, Michael O'Melia, Daryl Parker, Daniel Pratt, and their families and guests.

•BILL BISHAI is the son of Wilson and Elizabeth Bishai of William Street, Stoneham, and the oldest of three children. He is a 1981 graduate of Harvard College. In 1982, as a Fulbright Scholar, he earned his master's degree in pharmacology from Cambridge University, Cambridge, England. Bill is beginning his fifth year at Harvard Medical School where he is completing his Ph.D. in the Department of Microbiology and Molecular Genetics, and has two years left towards his M.D. He also is a pre-med adviser and tutor at Lowell House. This is Bill's fourth Devlin Scholarship.

•KOREINE DEMARS is the daughter of Bruce and Jean McGee of Forest Street, Reading, and the wife of John and mother of a year-old daughter, Joanne. They live on Wedgemere Avenue in Winchester. Koreine is a 1982 graduate of Winchester High School. She has worked as a home health aide, and attended Malden Hospital School of Nursing. This fall, she will continue her studies at Bunker Hill Community College. This is Koreine's first Devlin Scholarship.

•PATRICIA DEVLIN of Minchin Drive, Woburn, is the fifth of six children of the late John and Annette Devlin, formerly of Marlboro and Stoneham. She graduated from Marian High School in 1985, and has been working for her local Visiting Nurses Association. She is entering the nursing program at Fitchburg State College. This is Patty's first Devlin Scholarship.

•ANNE DINAPOLI is the daughter of Donald DiNapoli of Echo Avenue, Reading, and the late Anne DiNapoli. She is a graduate of Boston College, and received her master's degree in microbiology from Boston University. She is currently a fourth year medical student at Boston University School of Medicine. After a medical internship, she hopes to continue her residency training in psychiatry. This is Anne's third Devlin Scholarship.

•KEVIN MAGUIRE is the son of Edward and Gladys Maguire of Upland Road, Stoneham, and the youngest of five children. He has received degrees in both biochemistry and microbiology from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. He has worked in a cardiac care step down unit at the Lahey Clinic, and currently works for the Department of Medical Oncology at Boston University Medical Center, and as a nursing assistant at New England Memorial Hospital on a geriatric ward. Kevin is beginning University of Massachusetts Medical School. This is Kevin's first Devlin Scholarship.

•MARY-JO NUGENT is the daughter of Andrew and Mary Nugent of Main Street, Melrose, and the oldest of three children. She is a graduate of Melrose High School and Boston College, where she majored in biology and psychology. She has conducted research in connection with the Sonntag Institute for Cancer Research at Boston College, and the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary. This summer she has participated in Tuft's Germany exchange program, working in a lab at the medical complex in Hannover, West Germany. Mary-Jo is entering her second year at Tufts University School of Medicine. This is her second Devlin Scholarship.

Bishai, Michael O'Melia, Mary-Jo Nugent, and Trustees: Jennie Bing-You, Wil Eldridge, Frank Bracciotti, Jo Devlin, and Peter Devlin.

•MICHAEL O'MELIA is the son of John and Rita O'Melia of Cottage Street, Stoneham and the oldest of three boys. He is a 1982 graduate of Stoneham High School. For the past four years he has attended Middlesex Community College and worked as an emergency medical technician for Action Ambulance in Stoneham. This fall Michael is entering Lawrence Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. This is Michael's first Devlin Scholarship.

•DARYL PARKER is the son of Richard and Judith Parker of Forest Street, Winchester, and the oldest of five children. He is a 1984 graduate of Dartmouth College with a degree in physics. He is preparing for his third year at Dartmouth Medical School, with a particular interest in radiology-nuclear medicine. This is Daryl's third Devlin Scholarship.

•DANIEL PRATT is the son of David and Catherine Pratt of Winter Street, Reading, and the oldest of two children. He is a graduate of Reading High School and a 1985 graduate of Bowdoin College. Dan is entering his second year at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, where he is training to become a surgeon specializing in reconstructive surgery of infants. This is Dan's second Devlin Scholarship.

VNA HOSPICE Sally Woodward and VNA nurse Kathleen Hallisey.

Hospice care offered by Visiting Nurses

On June 18, Sara ("Sally") Foster Copeland Woodward of Winchester died peacefully at home in the company of her family and hospice caregivers of the Visiting Nurse Association (VNA). She was 75 years old. From the very beginning of Sally's illness, members of her family believed strongly in their mother's right to a dignified death.

"Families need not face a loved one's death alone," says Sally's daughter Betsy, "when there are kind and compassionate professionals ready to help." Long before hospice was popular, VNA was founded on a commitment to caring for people at home.

Sally was well-known in her hometown of Winchester. Her obituary described her as a community leader, a Republican party activist, one of the first women defense leaders, and an avid Red Sox fan. She is listed in Who's Who in American Women.

Early in 1985, doctors discovered a malignant tumor in Sally's brain that could not be completely removed. Sally lived a fairly normal life for nearly a year while she and her family began to prepare for her death. "We began researching the alternatives to a hospital death," says her eldest daughter Sara Jane, "because we felt that hospitals can be impersonal places and that Mother would be more comfortable in her own home."

The family's search led them to the Visiting Nurse Hospice.

"Friends, doctors, and hospital professionals recommended the VNA Hospice," says Sally's daughter Jean. Because of 100 years of experience in providing quality health care to individuals in the comfort of their own homes, the VNA is a natural choice for families like Sally's. The Hospice staff includes community health nurses; social workers; physical, occupational, and speech therapists; home health aides; maternal-child specialists; nutritional consultants; and volunteers. In addition to medical support, the VNA Hospice provides 24-hour coverage, homemaker services, medical equipment, emotional and psychological support, and bereavement support.

"We are not there to command or take over the patient's life," says Judy Player, R.N., Coordinator of the program. "Some families cope well. Others have a hard time watching a loved one approach death. We recognize limitations and acknowledge them as being normal." With help from VNA staff, Sally's daughter learned to give their mother injections, to prepare her meals, and to provide other elements of her daily care.

"You don't even know that you can do something like this — take care of a dying person — until you just go ahead and do it," says Jean. "I don't think any of us ever envisioned how much help we would need and how much help the VNA would be."

SAT prep workshops

To prepare high school seniors for the Nov. 1 Scholastic Aptitude Test (S.A.T.'s), the Learning Achievement Centers of Arlington and Wilmington are once again offering S.A.T. Prep. workshops starting the first week in October.

Class size is limited to ensure close student-teacher interaction, so enrollment is on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information, contact Steve Geordt at 658-3169 or 631-5354, or write to the central office of the Learning Achievement Centers at 173 Church St., Wilmington, MA. 01887.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Grantland Rice said it well, "It's not whether you win or lose that counts, but HOW you play the game." Football? Of Course — baseball and all sports, too, but play it for fun and exercise. Try your best to WIN, but if you don't, who cares? As long as you've played fair and square. I would rather see champions in education, the product of our high school than geniuses in throwing or catching a forward pass. Of course, you have a right to a different opinion.

Folks, age doesn't matter unless you're "cheese." If you insist on having "one for the road," you can bet that you will also get a state trooper for a "chaser." Warren Church was on a stepladder adjusting a clock in the town hall. My cousin, Dennis Tully, just had to ask, "What-cha-doing-is there something wrong with the clock?" "No," Warren snapped, "I'm nearsighted and I always get up on a ladder to see what time it is." My wife Kathy just finished a coconut and banana diet. She hasn't lost any weight, but, boy, can she climb a tree!

She came into view like the sun bursting up over the horizon to brighten our hearts and our lives with its glorious sunshine. Her name is Kathleen Fitzgerald, with eyes as blue as the lakes of Kilarney. She is the residential mortgage manager for a local bank. I remember when years ago my father went to the bank to borrow money to fix "this ole house." He asked a gentleman seated at a desk if he could speak to the "loan-arranger." He nearly fell out of his chair with that request. "The loan-arranger is out to lunch," he replied, "but you may speak to 'Tonto.'"

John Ridings of North Reading told me that he was never musically inclined until he got married and started playing "second fiddle." One of my ancestors was involved in the Boston Tea Party. He later told a cousin, "You know, John, taxes WITH representation ain't so HOT either!" "How's your new secretary?" I asked my friend Brian McCarthy. "She's wonderful," he said, "except for her 'punctuation.'" "I know what you mean Brian," I replied, "my secretary is always 'late,' too." Howie Murphy came down with the chicken pox last week and the doctor ordered him to stay 'cooped' up for two weeks. Timmy Harrington visited Howie, but had to be 'shooed' out of the room. Between Timmy's 'fowl' language and Howie's constant 'squawking,' it was enough to send anyone 'coo-coo.'

Kris Gallo, you have a Charismatic personality and your beautiful smile is a reflection of an inner glow. Kris is a soloist at my church with a voice of a Jeannette McDonald, the beauty of a Grace Kelly and the warmth of a Maureen O'Hara. I told Father Robert Burns, Gen. Manager of the Woburn Elks, that there are a billion stars in the universe. "If you say so, I believe you Woodchipper." But, when I told Bob that a bench in Woburn was freshly painted, he insisted on touching it to be sure.

Frank Tuttle of Wilmington, a retired design engineer formerly with Avco, called and told me he loves Woodchips. Frank's hobby is woodcarving and he has made a plaque that he wishes to present to me. Folks, almost everyone loves a "tip of the hat," "a thank you," or "an accolade." The reason I appreciate your kind gesture, Frank, is because in four years of writing Woodchips, I have received exactly seven cards, letters or calls from people telling me they like the column. I have received four letters in that time telling me that I spelled their names wrong. I answered every one thanking them for taking the time to write and I thank you, too,

Frank Tuttle of Wilmington, God Bless You.

I came home from work and my wife Kathy said, "Here's a letter for you. I thought it was mine so I 'steamed' it open by mistake." Would it be too much to have movies that are labeled "E" for entertainment for the whole family? Motion pictures started out as "Silent Movies," but now for the most part, they are "Unspeakable!" Kathy filled out an application to work part-time. "I see that your birthday is April 12," said the personnel manager, "what year?" Kathy smiled and said, "every year." Abraham Lincoln was born in a "log cabin" that he built with his own hands. That's one for you Jim Curley and Harry Ranhand to include in the Rotarian bulletin, "The Nut."

Conlon married the former Ann Woodman of Dracut and Barbara Brogan, part of the Town Crier's circulation department, married Gunnar Ek of Woburn.

I have found that the two books for a happy marriage are a "check book" and a "cook book." Kathy tells all her friends "her secret for a happy marriage is never go to bed angry, stay up and fight." Tewksbury's June DeStefano is a four-letter winner at the University of Lowell. She competed in the discus event holding the record for U Lowell of 128.9. June's coach was Jerry Rideout. Woodchips is proud of both of you. My Uncle John Shea was a great 'shot-putter.' He could put a shot away before Jack Barry the bartender could 'water it down.' Bill Hanlon of North Wilmington scored a 'hole in one' at the Trull Brook Golf course in Tewksbury. I always play golf prepared for something like that by wearing two pairs of pants in case I get a 'hole in one.' "Hey," I shouted to Frank Mazzoni "You can't hold up the game looking for your ball in the rough!" "Who the heck is looking for the ball—I'm looking for my club!"

We LOST something, folks, when we found out what a 'rainbow' really was. Tracey Heenan of Reading and manager of Russell Farms, you're the greatest.

40 years of fads fest

The Clubhouse, a Children's Museum exhibit designed especially for older kids aged nine and up, is celebrating the past four decades on Saturdays throughout October, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. This first of its kind exhibit invites older kids to join the fun with a schedule that includes "twisting" of the 50's to "breaking" of the 80's.

Starting October 4, the 50's will come alive with the music, fashions and hairstyles of the era. There will be twisting to Chubby Checker, D.A.s and pony tails, hula hoops and the chance to make 3-D glasses.

Fads and fun of the 60's will be the focus on Saturday, October 11. Older kids can make beaded headbands and necklaces, have their faces painted, and watch and enjoy the music of Woodstock on exciting videos.

Disco of the 70's will be the theme on Saturday, October 18. Learn cornrowing and French braiding while listening to a DJ spin the top tunes of the decade. "The Making of Star Wars" will also be shown.

The month-long activities will conclude on Saturday, October 24, with a celebration of the 80's fads. Exciting activities that day will be making a Michael Jackson glove, the perfect thing to wear while watching "The Making of Thriller." Other activities might include learning to breakdance or "rap."

These activities are only part of The Clubhouse exhibit. Other areas include a Diner where kids can sometimes make and eat snacks and learn about nutrition; "Faultless Jamming" where four guitar-like "instruments" allow kids to create the latest in computer synthesized music; and "Recollections" where the simplest movement is transformed into an array of designs and colors on an eight foot video screen. There is also a personal computer area which features the latest computer games and an exhibit of kids' own collections.

The Museum welcomes all kids ages nine and older to "hangout" every day after school and on weekends. With special activities and performances, there will be plenty to keep all happy and busy throughout the year, not just in October. The Clubhouse is open during regular Museum operating hours and is funded, in part, by a grant from WBZ-TV 4, as part of their "For Kids' Sake Campaign."

The Boston Children's Museum is on Boston's waterfront at Museum Wharf, 300 Congress Street, a short walk to Fanueil Hall Marketplace and accessible by public transportation. The Museum is open Tuesday-Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday until 9 p.m.; closed Mondays except Boston school vacation days and holidays. For information about the scheduled events call the What's Up Line: (617) 426-8855.

On the job training for people over 54

On-the-job training opportunities in the field of property management are now available to local men and women, over age 54, through a special program offered by Employment Resources Inc. (ERI).

The field of property management was selected for this population for several reasons. It offers both job stability and flexible employment arrangements which are well-suited to the needs and lifestyle of the older worker. Starting wages are higher than average and much of the training can take place on the job.

It is also a field which places high value on qualities which are characteristic of employees with long life experience: the ability to deal effectively with people, problem-solving and organizational skills, responsibility and maturity.

Employers who hire participants of this program will agree to provide job-specific training. During this training period, from six to seven months, ERI will reimburse part of the employee's wages to the employer.

Positions are expected to be in the areas of tenant relations, maintenance, residence management, office management, or housekeeping. Participants will receive orientation to the field.

ERI serves eligible residents of 20 local communities. For more information about participating in or becoming an OJT employer for this program, call Paul DiCesare at 492-0591.

drummer, will make a rare public appearance at the 4th Official Boston Beatles Convention, "Beatlemagic '86". The Convention dates are Oct. 10, 11, 12 and 13 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Our story for the week is from the Brande Handbook of Humor.

A wealthy farmer decided to go to church on Christmas. After the services, he approached the minister with great enthusiasm.

"Reverend," he said, "that was a damned good sermon you gave. Damned good!" "I am satisfied," replied the minister, "that you were pleased with it, but it would be nice if you didn't use those terms in expressing yourself." "I can't help it," responded the farmer, "I still think it was a damned good sermon, and I was so impressed that I put a one hundred dollar bill in the collection basket." "The hell you did," gulped the over-excited minister.

Temple Tots wins grant

The Combined Jewish Philanthropies (CJP) of Greater Boston has just awarded a $2,500 demonstration grant to the Temple Tots Program initiated last year by Temple Shalom Emeth of Burlington.

The grant is to be used in part for the preparation of a handbook and other resource materials on a Jewish educational program for pre-nursery children and their parents. In recommending this allocation, CJP subcommittee members noted the value of this program in providing out reach to communities surrounding Burlington.

Based on the model of a Jewish Parenting Center, Temple Tots is a social, educational and support system for parents and their children under the age of four. More structured than a playgroup, less structured than a nursery school, several Temple Tots groups meet weekly and are open to non-Temple members.

For information on the fall schedule, please contact Sue Gersh at 933-0044, Marsha Solloway at 229-6193, or phone Temple Shalom Emeth at 272-2351.

Our average patient loses over 85 pounds.

150,000 people have participated in The OPTIFAST Program of weight loss. 80% lost 40 pounds or more with an average loss of 85 pounds.

Why is The OPTIFAST Program different?

The doctors who administer our program realize that obesity is a disease.

Throughout the program, you receive unequalled medical support.

We're a division of the Dayton-Hudson Corporation, the fifth largest retailer in the nation, so come on board —and see how our success translates to yours. Our benefits package includes your choice of medical plans, comprehensive dental plan, free life insurance, paid vacations, store discounts, tuition reimbursement and more.

IN-HOME SERVICE CORRESPONDENTS

In these positions you will process calls from customers who require in-home service on major appliances and other high-ticket items they have purchased from Lechmere. Working at our busy corporate offices, you'll be learning about our products and policies as you fill a vital position on our customer service team. No experience is necessary—we are happy to train. For immediate consideration, contact Jean Butts, 935-8320, ext. 1740.

TELEMARKETING REPRESENTATIVES

Woburn & Cambridge locations

Earn extra cash in your spare time as a Telemarketing Representative for Lechmere, where you'll be selling merchandise service agreements and extended warranties to satisfied customers who have recently purchased appliances from us. All you need to have is a pleasant telephone voice and manner and we'll provide any training you might need.

Part-time hours—as few as 15 hours a week—will surely suit your busy schedule.

Hours: 6-9 evenings
9am-12 noon Saturdays

Cambridge only: 2-6 weekday afternoons.

For immediate consideration, contact Eric Webber after 12:00pm at 935-8320, ext. 2418.
